Remembering Ulster County's Fallen

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

Although the nation's longest war is now apparently at an end, peace didn't arrive soon enough for the 35 families in Ulster County which buried fathers, sons and husbands killed in Southeast Asia.

What began more than a decade ago as an annoying skirmish between two underdeveloped nations—and later exploded into a bloody conflict that claimed 46,000 American lives—spelled personal grief for many area residents. The war left few communities untouched.

Tuesday's announcement that truce terms have been reached was greeted with worldwide acclamation. But it certainly stirred more complex emotions in three city residents, who each lost a son to South Vietnam's fight for freedom.

"At least it's a peace with honor," said Mrs. John P. Brady, Sr. "It would have been hard for me if he had died in vain. It's a little easier now."

Her son, Army Sp/4 John P. Brady, Jr., was killed in action in Vietnam on Nov. 4, 1969. He was 21-years-old when he died.

"He served his country well. I'm very proud of him," said Mrs. Brady of her only son. "Now that we have peace, maybe another mother someplace won't have to go through what I went through."

Mrs. Brady said she felt no bitterness about the war that took her son. "John didn't have to go to Vietnam. He volunteered. He could have taken a safe assignment, but he wasn't like that."

Just six months earlier Army Private James Rundle, Jr. of Jumping Brook Lane in the Town of Ulster was killed in combat in Vietnam.

His father said Wednesday that the peace agreement was "good," and that, "It's the best thing that could happen. At least we're leaving with honor."

"We were kind of bitter about the war after Jimmie was killed," continued James Rundle, Sr. "I'm just glad that we're finally out of it now."

Similar sentiments were expressed by Mrs. Grace Donovan of 120 Fair Street, whose son, Marine Lance Corporal Peter M. Donovan, was killed Aug. 31, 1969 during an ambush on suspected enemy positions in Thua Thien Province. He was 22-years-old.

"I'm glad we finally have peace," she said, "especially for the wives and mothers who still have loved ones over there. It means the most to them."

Mrs. Donovan said she supported President Nixon's goal of an "honorable settlement" to the war, and would never have supported a unilateral withdrawal of American forces.

"It (the war) was all for nothing, anyway," said Mrs. Donovan, "but if we had just quit, it would have been even more meaningless."

Since July, 1970, there have been no recorded Vietnam casualties for Ulster County. The last to die in combat was Army Spec. 4th Class Richard Quinn of Woodstock. He was killed July 12.

The first casualty, on March 17, 1966, was Pfc. James R. Reilly of Esopus. Four other servicemen from Ulster County were to die in Vietnam that year.

The next three years were the most costly. Eight county residents were killed in 1967; nine in both 1968 and 1969. In 1970, when the first significant troop withdrawals were begun, four local servicemen perished.

Two Ellenville and two Saugerties men were also killed in Vietnam during 1966. They were Private Richard Maloy and Lt. Michael T. Newell, both of Ellenville, who died on April 15 and Dec. 14 respectively. The two Saugerties casualties were Pfc. Thomas C. Newkirk, who died Sept. 10, and Staff Sgt. William F. Steiger, who died Dec. 3.

The eight casualties during 1967 included Navy man Michael Peter Carr, of Kingston; Pfc. Robert Tubby, of Kingston; Marine Lance Cpl. Richard W. Crawford, of Wallkill; and Pfc. Michael P. Santorosci, of Kingston.

Also killed in the war during 1967 were Specialist Paul Benkert, of Saugerties; Sgt. First Class Charles William Johnson, of Kingston; Pfc. Robert L. Johnson, of Highland; and Marine Cpl. Chester Joy, of Kingston.

Killed during 1968 were Marine Pfc. Joseph Leroy Long, of Kingston; Cpl. Wayne C. Myers, of Saugerties; Marine Pfc. Jose Viruet of Wallkill; Sp/4 Alan Pagharoni, of Accord; Sgt. Lewis P. Iorio, of Highland; Lance Cpl. Paul Lewis, of Saugerties; Sp/4 Carl F. Green, of Shady; and Air Force Capt. Robert G. Bull, of Marlboro.

Casualties during 1969 included Kingston men Pfc. John Senor; Pfc. Stephan Sherlock; and Air Force Sgt. Walter J. Dart. Also killed were Pfc. Henry Schulte of New Paltz; Sgt. Berton Decker of Kerhonkson; Pfc. Michael Winters of Saugerties; and Marine Pfc. Raymond Wood of Napanoch.

Deaths during 1970 included Lance Cpl. William Partington of Marlboro; Air Force Master Sgt. Joseph C. Jeszek of Wawarsing; and Capt. Robert F. Woodhouse, Jr. of Ellenville.

No Letup in Fighting -- Yet

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. warplanes striking throughout South Vietnam and the heaviest gunners fired 4,000 artillery and Communist shelling in nearly a month spelled no letup on either side today with an official Vietnam cease-fire less than three days away.

Near the destroyed city of Quang Tri, 435 miles north of Saigon, it was the heaviest secret of their intent to keep shelling this month anywhere in fighting until the cease-fire takes effect at 8 a.m. Sunday (7 p.m. EST Saturday).

"Until Sunday we'll do anything we want to," said a Vietnamese official. "There has been no change in mission," a ranking U.S. officer said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the first steps to end its costly and frustrating 12-year crusade in Indochina, the United States has stopped troop shipments to Vietnam, ordered the clearing of North Vietnam's mined harbors and prepared to aid American prisoners of war.

The actions started implementing the agreement President Nixon announced Tuesday night for a cease-fire in Vietnam, effective 7 p.m. EST Saturday. In the following 60 days, the United States is supposed to withdraw its remaining troops in South Vietnam and the Communists are supposed to release nearly 600 American prisoners.

The basic details of the steps taken to implement the agreement are these:

—The Pentagon canceled all military orders for assignments to Vietnam "effective immediately."

Spokesmen said the order will virtually stop the flow of U.S. military personnel to Vietnam and that only a few "specially skilled personnel" will be sent during the 60 days.

—The U.S. Navy was ordered to prepare mine sweeping task forces to be sent to clear North Vietnamese harbors Saturday night when the cease-fire goes into effect. The mines were put in place in May when Nixon ordered a bombing campaign against North Vietnam.

Plans were advanced to receive U.S. prisoners. American negotiator Henry A. Kissinger said Wednesday the first prisoners would fly out of Hanoi aboard a U.S. Air Force jet within 15 days after the cease-fire agreement is signed and that they would be released in four equal segments about 15 days apart over the 60-day period. Lists of the Americans held captive are to be provided during the signing of the accords in Paris Saturday.

In addition, the United States and North Vietnam announced that a force of 1,160 men from Canada, Hungary, Indonesia and Poland will police the peace, starting their move into South Vietnam within 48 hours after the truce. The announcement said an international conference to which both the Soviet Union and China have substantially all the clarifications and refinements it sought within 30 days to oversee last October.

provisions of the accord. The probable site of the meeting is only if neither side sought to achieve everything it wanted," Kissinger said.

In Vietnam, Communist forces stepped up their attacks to the highest level in three weeks. Analysts said both sides appeared determined to use the time before the cease-fire to seize as much territory as possible.

Kissinger briefed reporters at the White House Wednesday, many elements that cannot be completely satisfactory to all parties concerned."

Kissinger said it was the United States' "firm expectation" that the Vietnam accords would be followed by a formal cease-fire in Laos and a de facto cease-fire in Cambodia.

"We expect the same thing to be true there," Kissinger said.

The Washington Star-News reported in a dispatch from Vientiane, Laos, that there had been an agreement on a Vietnam cease-fire to start Feb. 11—just 15 days after the SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today "one-man, one-vote" elections could take place in South Vietnam within six months.

"We must be prepared to beat the Communists in six months in a one-man, one-vote election," Thieu told a meeting of about 1,000 police officers.

Under terms of the Vietnam cease-fire agreement, international supervisors will oversee elections, but it is up to the South Vietnamese and the Viet Cong to decide what offices voters will fill.

Thieu's nephew and closest personal adviser, Hoang Duc Nha, said the South Vietnamese want only the president elected, but that the Viet Cong may want village or legislative elections.

Thieu did not specify what type of election he wanted.

Earlier, Nha called for the withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops from the south, signaling the first official disagreement between north and south over the terms of the Vietnam peace treaty.

"As long as there is a single other side," he said. "If the North Vietnamese troop in other side tries to expand its South Vietnam," said Duc Nha, "the people of South Vietnam cannot experience their rights in a free manner."

The peace agreement does not mention the withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces from watch.

Referring to other points in the agreement, Nha said the National Council of Reconciliation and Concord is "no more, al Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) force in which we proposed in July, settling disputes over cease-fire 1969."

In the Oct. 26 draft version of the agreement, the North Vietnamese envisioned the council as a powerful administrative body.

He also said that 24 hours after the cease-fire begins, the terms of the agreement and South Vietnam will be ready to not try to capture territory now meet the Viet Cong's political wing, the Provisional Revolutionary Government, to discuss internal issues, but he did not say where the meeting would take place.

"We are not going to expand and make forays into areas that are under control of the said. "It could be in Saigon,"

Restoration Plans Completed

Tremper Approval Looms

KINGSTON The Common Council is expected to approve the city takeover of the Tremper House at 3 North Front Street next month, thus clearing the way for its exterior restoration and eventual conversion into a "Kingston Cultural Center."

Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward), chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee of the Common Council, told The Freeman today that his committee met last week with the Kingston Landmarks Preservation Commission, reviewed plans for the restoration and is prepared to recommend the city's assumption of title on the building, now owned by the Urban Renewal Agency, at the Feb. 6 regular meeting of the Council.

Architect Albert E. Milliken, also a member of the Landmarks Commission, has completed specifications for the restoration and said that with Council approval, bids could be advertised by late February. The commission is hoping to bring in the job for less than $45,000, the amount of money it has on hand from a donation from IBM. Work, according to Milliken, includes the removal of wooden wings on the building restoration of the outer stucco surface, installation of new doors and windows and a new roof.

The Tremper House, built in 1802, is considered one of the city's most important historic sites. The Urban Renewal Agency bought it for $40,000 in 1970 from attorneys Seymour Werbalowsky and Hubert A. Richter.

With city acquisition, the Landmarks Commission could apply for federal funds for the estimated $90,000 in exterior restoration costs. No outlay of city funds is expected.

Fred Johnston, in a letter to Mayor Francis R. Koenig last November, seeking city takeover of the building, stated that once restoration is completed, "major portions" of the building would be set aside for display of works of Kingston and Ulster County artists.

The Commission also plans to form a "Kingston Art and Historical Society" which would have supervision over the museum-cultural center. Johnston also states that the New York State Council on the Arts has "promised" to pay the salary of a custodian for the museum.

Taking 'Important Steps'

KINGSTON The Kingston Bicentennial Commission met in regular session Wednesday night and took a number of important steps toward the what promises to be a historic celebration in 1976-77.

Margaret Hanstein announced plans for the planting of tulips in 1975 for a two year Tulip festival in '76 and '77. Beds of tulips will be planted at strategic sites in the city including the entrances of the city. In addition, residents will be asked to plant tulips at their homes, marking the occasion.

The Commission, noting the $1,500 approval for it in Mayor

Francis R. Koenig's 1973 budget, will embark on fund raising activities this year. To do so, the commission will have to be incorporated. Incorporation papers will be reviewed next month. A committee was appointed to design stationary for the Commission. Thomas Johnson, William Rylance and Joseph Pentick, an art teacher at the State University at New Paltz, will serve on that committee.

The possibility of a film on "historic Kingston" was discussed along with the issuance of bumper stickers and decals to advertise the coming events. Johnson will coordinate that effort. Initial plans were made for a "mammoth parade" opening the centennial celebrations. John R. Mayone and Ralph Shapiro will report back on that at the next meeting, Feb. 21.

Robert Lloyd, manager of the Holiday Inn, will report back on plans for an "inaugural ball" in 1976.

Mrs. Hanstein will contact Congressman Hamilton Fish on the possibility of designating the grave of Gov. George Clinton (he is buried in the Old Dutch Church Graveyard) as an historical site.

Five new members were appointed to the commission, Lloyd, Mayone, Shapiro, Michael Pagliaro and Henry Haltermann.

Fish Named to Sub-Committee

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Hamilton Fish, Jr. (R-25th Dist.) third term Republican Congressman from New York's 25th Congressional District, has been named ranking minority member of a sub-committee of the powerful House Judiciary Committee by Committee Chairman, Peter Rodino. (D-N.J.).

Rodino took over chairmanship of the House Judiciary Committee.

Committee on the retirement of Emanuel Celler of New York.

The sub-committee will deal with ethics and reforms.

"We will be looking into the entire area of Congressional reform as they relate to Congressional ethics," Fish said.

Fish, now ranks eighth of the 18 Republicans on the House Judiciary Committee.

The position of ranking minority member means that Congressman Fish will handle all floor debate for the Republican side on any bills reported from his sub-committee.

It also means that on all legislation coming before his committee in which the administration has an interest he will be dealing directly with the White House.

SYMBOLIC SIGN — The word "JUNK" painted on the side of a discarded American armored vehicle in South Vietnam — amid many others in the same condition — seems symbolic following the announcement that all fighting will end at 7 p. m. EST on Saturday. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

An Uncertain Aftermath

LONDON (UPI) — Communist diplomats, in their first assessment of the Vietnam settlement, concede with surprising bluntness that the peace settlement in Vietnam looks very different from what the Communists had set out to achieve.

Ideologically, politically and strategically, the aftermath of the Vietnam battle looks as uncertain to the Communists as it does to Americans and other Western experts.

The end of the war is welcomed universally. It has, however, brought neither tears of joy nor of grief to the eyes of Hanoi's allies.

From initial responses, it is clear that both Moscow and Peking are glad it is over. Vietnam had become costly and counter-productive.

Moreover, the Vietnam War lately became a disturbing element in Chinese and Russian global strategy and policy.

Both had been seeking—for their own pressing reasons—a rapprochement with the United States for some time past, but had felt inhibited by the impact of their own years of propaganda against American "imperialism" in Vietnam.

The cost also has been heavy, though nothing compared with the American expense in life and money. The war has milked Hanoi's big allies for years and the propaganda value of support to the fellow Communists evaporated as Peking and Moscow began—for everybody to see—to flirt with Washington.

The cry for American withdrawal has long been muted by unspoken fears among the major Communist rivals of the power vacuum the American pullout is likely to cause in the Far East.

The ideological split between Moscow and Peking also had put a different complexion on Hanoi's struggle.

The two Communist superpowers find themselves, now that the war has come to an end, faced with the problem of openly and sharply conflicting interests for influence and power in Asia.

Their differences, strong even while the war was in progress, are likely to become deeper, more accentuated and more acute.

In the immediate excitement following the end of the war, little attention has so far been put on what will happen in Hanoi, whose disillusionment is hardly likely to strengthen the regime or bud into a passionate love relationship with its reluctant friends.

Vietnam Construction Program

$10 Billion in Aid Predicted

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said today Western nations are ready to contribute as much as $10 billion to an American-sponsored postwar aid and construction program in Vietnam.

The program, they said, would involve both North and South Vietnam, with some aid also going to Cambodia and Laos.

West Germany, Britain, France and smaller West European countries are prepared to contribute, although the sources said, the bulk of the money will come from the United States.

Japan was reported planning a $2 billion rehabilitation fund. The sources said the Soviet Union and China also were ready to make aid for reconstruction in Southeast Asia available. But it appears their aid would go chiefly to North Vietnam.

It is hard to envisage an international aid operation with East and West participating, the sources said, although this could make planning and allocation more practical.

So far, there have been no firm commitments by Western countries, but talks are expected to start shortly. Prime Minister Edward Heath, who meets President Nixon in Washington on Feb. 1 and 2, plans to discuss problems connected with the end of the Vietnam War.

British participation in a forthcoming international conference to guarantee the Vietnam settlement and any aid contribution are likely to play a big part in the Heath-Nixon talks.

West German Chancellor Willy Brandt promised reconstruction aid for both parts of Vietnam last week and opposition leader Rainer Barzel supported him.

What Next for Henry?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Kissinger talked himself out of a job?

President Nixon's assistant for national security affairs simply smiled Wednesday when asked that question.

What indeed will Kissinger do now that Vietnam peace, at last, is at hand? Gossipy Washington is churning out an assortment of answers with little help from Kissinger, who has indicated he doesn't know himself.

"What can top Paris?" he mused during a conversation, referring to the city he visited 24 times in 42 months pursuing a peace accord.

Kissinger said a few weeks ago that once a Vietnam peace was wrapped up he hoped for a leisurely vacation in Mexico. Beyond that, there has been little information about his plans.

No sudden change is anticipated in Kissinger's role as Nixon's chief foreign-policy adviser. But Kissinger has suggested to friends that the National Security Council apparatus he heads would have a better chance of enduring in subsequent administrations if it had someone else at the helm—at least for a while—before Nixon leaves office.

In this way, the German-born, former Harvard professor has signaled a desire to leave the White House before Nixon does.

But there have been signs, too, that Kissinger would relish an opportunity to turn his immense energies to other world problems—rebuilding America's European alliances, helping build a new era in East-West relations and perhaps working for a Middle East solution.

Kissinger has appeared to leave public efforts toward a Mideast settlement to others—perhaps because he is Jewish. But the Arabs themselves reportedly have shown some interest in enlisting Kissinger's talents toward working out a solution.

U. S. Planes to Continue Bombing Until Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials say U.S. warplanes will continue to bomb North Vietnamese supply lines in Southern Laos and to help South Vietnamese ground troops until Saturday's cease-fire.

These officials expect both Communist and South Vietnamese forces to grasp for more territory over the next four days. The shooting is supposed to stop at 7 p.m., EST, Saturday.

Keeping up U.S. air strikes carries with it the obvious danger that more American airmen may be killed in the last few days of the 11-year war.

However, the enemy anti-aircraft threat is said to be relatively light in those areas.

Manned reconnaissance flights were halted over North Vietnam where enemy anti-aircraft guns and missiles are thickest. Since this was done more than a week ago, reliance has been placed on radio-controlled robot aircraft carrying cameras.

Although the main purpose was to avoid any shooting incident that might have upset the peace negotiations at a delicate stage, an important by-product was the minimizing of U.S. casualties in the last days of the war.

Many U.S. military men predict the cease-fire will mark only a pause in the long war between the Communist and anti-Communist Vietnamese. name air force to provide to more than 2,400 airplanes and helicopters.

If there is a need for air power to support South Vietnamese ground troops in any new fighting, Pentagon officials insist it will be up to the South Vietnamese air force to provide that support.

Hurrying to get in ahead of the cease-fire, the United States Air Force in Indochina will be shifted after the cease-fire from Saigon's air force to a base in Thailand.

Meanwhile, officials have said the United States probably will delay any major cutbacks of air power in Thailand until after all American servicemen are safely out of South Vietnam and all American prisoners of war have been returned.

Even then, the United States will maintain significant air power in Thailand and naval forces in Thailand and in Southeast Asian waters.

War Costs Staggering

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For everyone involved, the cost of the Vietnam war has been staggering, both in terms of lives and dollars. Here is a quick look at some of those costs.

CASUALTIES: The Pentagon says 45,928 Americans were killed in action, and more than 300,000 were wounded between 1961 and the end of 1972. The South Vietnamese command says 180,676 of its troops and an estimated 921,350 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed in the same period.

The U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Refugees estimates civilian casualties in South Vietnam at 415,000 killed and 935,000 wounded from 1965 through 1972.

TAXES: The war has cost American taxpayers nearly $137 billion.

U.S. SERVICEMEN: About 2.6 million Americans have served in the armed forces in Vietnam and another 700,000 elsewhere in Southeast Asia or on ships off the Vietnamese coast.

REFUGEES: The war has created, at least temporarily, more than 6 million refugees in South Vietnam, according to Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., a chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Refugees.

Millions of others have been driven from their homes in Laos, Cambodia and North Vietnam.

AIRCRAFT LOSSES: The United States has lost 4,900 helicopters and 3,700 fixed-wing planes, about 1,100 of them over North Vietnam.

BOMBING: U.S. warplanes dropped about 7.1 million tons of bombs and rockets on the four countries of Indochina. That is about three times the tonnage dropped by U.S. planes in World War II and 10 times the amount in the Korean War.

How to Package Peace . . . A Step-by-Step Lesson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly two weeks ago Henry Kissinger flashed word across the Atlantic to President Nixon that major ingredients of a Vietnam peace agreement had been reached.

The negotiator's cable, it now appears, set in motion a carefully orchestrated series of events that offer a textbook lesson in how to package peace.

Step by step, announcement by announcement, Nixon and his key White House aides—several of them former advertising-agency executives—built toward the dramatic conclusion.

That came Tuesday night when Nixon, sitting behind his Oval Office desk, watched for the camera's red light to blink on and told the nation:

"Good evening. I have asked for this radio and television time tonight for the purpose of announcing that we today have concluded an agreement to end the war and bring peace with honor in Vietnam and in Southeast Asia."

Persistent reports — never confirmed publicly by knowledgeable officials — say that Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho rapidly flattened remaining barriers after resuming their Paris talks on Monday, Jan. 8.

On Thursday, Jan. 11, according to these reports, Kissinger believed the agreement was basically wrapped up. In fact, according to some accounts, he was ready to initial it then and there.

But Nixon wanted Kissinger to come back to the United States for consultations. And he wanted to touch base with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, whose balking earlier had helped torpedo soaring peace hopes—an atmosphere of optimism fed by Kissinger's "peace is at hand" statement Oct. 26.

The first hint of the Nixon plan came in an off-hand comment by a White House official on Friday, Jan. 12. "You're going to be plenty busy down there," the official told a newsman after Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced that Nixon would be going to his Key Biscayne, Fla., home that day.

The President, said Ziegler, would be spending two or three days in Florida working on his inaugural address.

Before dawn the next morning, however, reporters were awakened in their Miami hotel rooms by telephone calls from Ziegler. Kissinger was coming immediately to Key Biscayne, Ziegler announced, to confer with Nixon after six days of "serious negotiations" with Tho.

★ ★ POW Wives . . . More Tears Than Smiles

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Navy wives whose husbands are prisoners of war had more tears than smiles as they heard President Nixon announce a cease-fire agreement for Vietnam.

"I never really thought we'd hear this. It's like something you dream about and never think is really going to happen," said Charlotte Christian, whose husband has been a POW for more than six years.

Mrs. Christian, sitting on the floor of her den with her three youngsters clustered around, cried quietly when she heard Nixon's announcement.

She wept again when the President said all POW's would be home within 60 days.

"It's anticlimatic," said another of the 21 wives in this Navy base town whose husbands are either prisoners or missing in action.

Louise Mulligan, whose husband has been a prisoner more than seven years, said, "I guess it's finally going to be over. I hope it is. But too much has happened. After seven years of suppressing your emotions, I can't jump up and down."

The attractive, gray-eyed woman, who heard the news with four of her six sons, said, "President Nixon said 'peace with honor.'"

"I don't think it's peace with honor. I'm sorry. I don't think those poor people — the South Vietnamese — are going to see peace. . . ."

Both wives are concerned about their friends whose husbands are missing in action and might not return. "For us, it's the beginning; for them, it's the end," said Mrs. Christian.

"When my husband gets here, I'm going to be very excited," said Mrs. Mulligan of her husband, Cmdr. James A. Mulligan Jr. "But I have so many friends whose husbands aren't coming home."

"I wish with all my heart that the war had been worth those men dying . . . that we had accomplished something. It (he end) had to come, but I think it should have come a few years ago. We pay the price. Our men pay the price."

The predawn calls marked the first time any U.S. official had publicly confirmed that the renewed talks met Nixon's demand that the North Vietnamese bargain seriously.

AP Analysis

The next announcement came the following day, Sunday, Jan. 14.

It was made by Ziegler after Nixon, Kissinger and Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. strolled briefly in the morning sunshine outside the President's office so cameramen could photograph them.

Haig would leave that evening, Ziegler said, to consult with Thieu and other Asian leaders.

The suspense elevated: Had progress been made in Paris? Was peace at hand?

The next White House announcement the next day—Monday, Jan. 15—provided a partial answer. "Because of progress in the negotiations," Ziegler said, Nixon had ordered a halt to all bombing, shelling and mining of North Vietnam.

The package of rapid-fire announcements created the impression—without optimistic statements putting the White House out on the limb again—that a settlement was near.

That upbeat trend accelerated on Thursday when Ziegler, standing behind microphones in the one-time display apartment which serves as a Florida White House press room, announced that Kissinger would return to Paris the following Tuesday for the purpose of "completing the text of an agreement."

He wouldn't elaborate and carefully avoided any display of optimism. But, although unspoken, the message was clear: Peace was, indeed, at hand.

Nixon's cryptic references to Vietnam in his Saturday inaugural address—the longest and most costly war in American history is drawing to a close, he said—offered no specifics. But, at the same time, it did nothing to deflate the peace-is-at-hand mood.

Kissinger flew to Paris on Monday to complete "the text of an agreement." But, it now appears, the text already had been completed on a lower level by teams of technical experts.

Nixon's adviser and Tho spent less than four hours going over the lengthy documents before both affixed their initials and Kissinger headed home.

By the time he landed at Andrews Air Force Base, technicians were installing broadcast equipment in Nixon's Oval Office. The President's packaging of peace would soon be complete.

HAPPY GIs — U. S. soldiers crowd around a radio as they listen to President Nixon's announcement of a cease-fire in the Vietnam war at Tan Son Nhut Airport near Saigon early Wednesday. In his speech Nixon said that cease-fire will go into effect in Vietnam starting at 7 p. m. EST Saturday. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

B-52 Losses Were Avoidable

WASHINGTON — We have talked by overseas phone to B-52 crewmen who are bitter over their losses during the controversial Hanoi raids last December. Some B-52s were shot down, they charge, because of poor planning. We have also had access to records which tell what really happened over Hanoi. The records confirm the failure to change the flight patterns for three nights endangered lives. But even after the flight patterns were belatedly altered, the toll of B-52s remained high.

One pilot, a veteran of many combat missions, was so upset that he wrote to President Nixon on Christmas Day. "The number of B-52s shot down," he complained, "were not necessarily due to enemy marksmanship but rather due to inept, unimaginative and indifferent planning."

The same pilot sent an even more poignant letter to Senator George McGovern, himself a former bomber pilot. "I am an Academy graduate that has become frustrated with and ashamed of the career I have chosen," wrote the embittered crewman, "for I have seen the ideals that I learned at the Academy became a sham in the working Air Force. Dignity is more important than integrity, and 'cover-your-ass' has replaced honor."

The pilot spelled out some of his specific complaints: "If the military planners had done everything possible to avoid the losses and they occurred anyway, then assuming the raids were necessary, the vast number of aircraft and men shot down would be acceptable. But to have so poorly planned the mission and then for the military to state that the losses were expected, is to us tragic. It is not true that the planners were limited as to the flight paths required to get the B-52s in and out of North Vietnam. After the crews complained of the flight planning, the next days of raiding saw drastic changes to the ways that the B-52s entered and departed the Hanoi/Haiphong area."

Like Shooting Ducks
The secret reports to the Pentagon confirm that the big bombers, winging in one after another like ducks in a shooting gallery, followed the same flight patterns for three nights in a row. Thereafter, the B-52s varied their approach, hitting Hanoi from every point on the compass.

A top Air Force general acknowledged to us, "in retrospect," that the flight tactics should have been changed earlier. On December 18, the first day of the saturation bombing, a salvo of 100 SAM missiles brought down two B-52s. On the second day, approximately 150 missiles were tracked, but they bagged only one bomber.

The third day was the worst. The anti-aircraft crews below had their missiles trained on the B-flight path. When the great bombers arrived following the same heading, the sky suddenly was filled with missiles. In shotgun bursts, more than 400 streaked up at the B-52s. It was a miracle, the shaken crewmen told us, that only three bombers were knocked down.

Their complaints finally moved the Eighth Air Force command to change the flight pattern. On the fourth day, the defenders were able to get off only 70 SAMs. Nevertheless, they bagged another three bombers.

Thereafter, both the SAM missiles and B-52 losses declined. By Christmas Eve, the defenders were able to launch only seven SAMs. They used the Christmas truce, however, to repair their defenses. On December 26, they sent up a barrage of 100 missiles, another 120 the next night. But by December 29, the number was back down to 20.

All told, 15 B-52s were shot down, another nine heavily damaged during "Operation Linebacker," as the Hanoi raids were called. Six of the damaged bombers have been repaired. Two more should be ready to return to the air in February; the ninth will take until July to rehabilitate. Several B-52 crewmen complained bitterly about the Hanoi missions, but only Capt. Michael Heck refused to fly any more bombing raids. An F-4 Phantom pilot, Capt. Dwight J. Evans, Jr., also refused to fly any more combat missions. The total dropped from flying status during the eight years of Vietnam War is only 23 — 19 because of fear, four for refusal. This compares with 979 who were suspended from flying status during the Korean War for motivational reasons.

Footnote: The pilot who wrote to Nixon and McGovern signed his name. When we reached him in Guam, he acknowledged writing the letters but refused to discuss them. Afterward, his family appealed to us not to use his name.

Injustice to Indians
Interior Department officials have used their power over Indian lands to give the best possible leases to mining, oil and natural gas interests. Then the federal government has enforced the leases with guns.

But it's another story when an Indian asks for help against a lessee. One of the many small, pathetic tales in the Broken Treaties papers taken from government files shows this unfair equation at its worst.

An Indian, Mark Dewey, of St. Stephens, Wyoming, complained to Interior that his lessees and their dogs had chased his horses. One horse had died of wire cuts, another was ferociously slain by the dogs.

Despite Dewey's pleading, Interior told him that since he had not gotten approval of Interior to make the lease, it "was a state matter... we do not know how we can be of assistance to you."

On War's End

The collective sigh of relief heard throughout America following President Nixon's announcement that a Vietnam cease-fire will go into effect Saturday night was—like the tip of an iceberg—only a partial outlet for the frustrations and despair that have plagued this land for the past 12 years.

The best that can be said is that America's role in this dirty, unlamented war is finished, and all of us can be most thankful for that.

The President has accomplished to a degree what he has set out to do. We are withdrawing our forces from Indochina and hopefully, our prisoners of war will be safely returned to us. It is somewhat of a peace "with honor," but definitely not a clear-cut victory or defeat for any of the combatants. The whole misbegotten episode was clearly a painful exercise in the futility of needless conflict as a solution to international power politics.

Now it is up to the Vietnamese themselves to solve their internal problems as best they can. The cease-fire leaves Communist troops "in place" throughout South Vietnam, but Vietnamization, so readily scorned by many in this country while it was developing, certainly allows President Thieu's forces a better chance for survival than if the program had never been instituted.

What the United States, in effect, has said—with the tacit understanding of China and Russia—is that this country has done all it can to monitor the political complexion of Southeast Asia. It is now up to these Asians to mold their own destiny. If the south vigorously exhibits the will to survive, it probably can do so. If not, the United States has done all it can.

But let us tally the awesome cost of this venture to our country.

American battle deaths totaled 45,933; 303,616 servicemen were wounded or injured; another 1,811 GIs are either captured or missing, and the tremendous cost to our economy was in excess of $200 billion. The cost of the damage to our national unity and pride, the divisiveness this war brought, is inestimable.

So let the Vietnam chapter of American history be thankfully closed but let the lessons this pitiful adventure taught us be ever remembered. War is an extension of diplomacy that failed. Let our inbred system of governmental checks and balances between the executive and legislative branches control the powers of war in the future—and insure that the tragedy of Vietnam is never repeated.

Divorce Insurance

Divorce insurance is being considered in New York State. A state senator has drafted a bill to establish a commission to study this idea. It would provide certain sums for the immediate years after divorce.

Public pressure for such a bill originates with the National Organization to Improve Support Enforcement, whose founder, Mrs. Diana Du Broff, is a matrimonial attorney. The NOISE people hope that divorce insurance will be government-sponsored and mandatory, but at first to be provided by private companies on a voluntary basis. It would provide for some child support and/or job or professional training for the abandoned wife.

Figures show that in New York

State, only 38 per cent of fathers are in full compliance with paying alimony or child support; 20 per cent had only partially complied; and 42 per cent made no payment at all. By the 10th year, 79 per cent of the fathers were making no payment.

Actions over alimony have tripled in the last three years. Jail is not the answer. And if the mother takes a job full time, both the children, and the state suffer, because this produces delinquents.

The happily-marrieds could convert their policies to retirement benefits after the years of peak danger, is the dream.

Government statistics show that the divorce rate increased 68 per cent from 1962 to 1972, and there are now 455 divorces for every 1,000 new marriages, with broken homes multiplying crime and drug use.

WASHINGTON — It is unfortunate that Lyndon Baines Johnson didn't live long enough to see the end of the Vietnam War which he had tried so hard to get. For Mr. Johnson came into office as the 36th President of the United States when the military involvement of this country in Vietnam had already been instituted during the administrations of Presidents Kennedy and Eisenhower and Truman.

Lyndon Johnson's efforts to make peace in Vietnam were continuous, though he found it necessary to increase American forces from about 15,000 when he took office in 1963 to more than 500,000 when he left the White House in January 1969.

President Johnson had halted the bombing of North Vietnam in 1968, when "peace talks" were begun. The country was surprised at his announcement on March 31, 1968, that he would not seek or accept renomination. His hope was that some progress might be achieved toward a peace settlement during the rest of his term, but it turned out that the North Vietnamese were not negotiating seriously.

Mr. Johnson got the support of Congress in 1964 when two United States destroyers were attacked by North Vietnamese torpedo boats in the Gulf of Tonkin. Immediate retaliatory action was taken, and Congress answered the President's call for war powers by passing a resolution giving him authority "to take all necessary measures to repel an armed attack against the forces of the United States and to prevent further aggression."

President Johnson offered as early as September 1967 to stop all bombing of North Vietnam if this would "lead promptly to productive discussion." But North Vietnam refused.

Looking back over at least ten years of war in Vietnam, it will be found that the United States was honoring its commitments made in the Southeast Asia Treaty, which was ratified by the Senate in 1955. The Vietnam issue was regarded by the chief executives in three administrations as the fulfillment of the pledge to help nations of Southeast Asia which were victims of aggression.

Nevertheless, Mr. Johnson was under frequent criticism from "antiwar" groups and from members of Congress who felt the pressure to terminate the draft and relieve hundreds of thousands of young men from having to go into military service.

While Lyndon Johnson made every effort to obtain a settlement with the North Vietnamese, the Communist side in the war was adamant. Military aid to North Vietnam from Red China and the Soviet Union was substantial from the start.

If Lyndon Johnson could have lived to read the text of the agreement that will be signed and to learn of the plans for the return of prisoners and withdrawal of all American forces, it would have been one of the most satisfying moments of his life. When peace is achieved, the record will show that he worked hard to attain that goal.

People forget what happened only a few years ago. Many of them, especially the "antiwar" groups, seem not to remember that the Vietnam War was not started under President Nixon. Nor do they realize that he has been carrying out the obligations of the United States in the treaty of 1955 to protect the sovereignty of a small nation.

The "antiwar" movement seems to be based upon objections to all war no matter what the consequences are and what the risks would be if aggressors are allowed to grab territory and deny millions of people their rights to freedom.

While there have been many eulogies for Lyndon Johnson, his handling of the Vietnam War, especially as he strove to stop the bloodshed, will be regarded as a demonstration not only of his dedication to peace but of his loyalty to the cause which brought the United States into the Vietnam conflict. The huge sacrifices made will always remain an exhibition of the humanitarianism of the United States.

LBJ's Peace Role

Vanity Getting a Bad Rep

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — If you received an apricot scarf as a Christmas or Twelfth-night gift, someone is trying to tell you something.

Such a garment is a central prop in the most popular song on the radio these days, "You're So Vain," sung sweetly and huskily by Carly Simon.

Vanity seems to be getting a bad rap. Although Carly Simon's hero gavottes about in Lear Jets and runs mares at Saratoga, being vain is a less sociological curse than it used to be. A generation ago, she would have crooned an indictment against her lover for being "stuck up," an accusation with far more class overtones.

From the evidence along the bleak boulevards of this one-time citadel of vanity, its practice seems more desperate than ever. Vanity, alas, has become a substitute for pride, as glamor degenerated into bogus beauty. In Hollywood, as elsewhere, everyone is auditioning.

The original Schwab's Pharmacy on Sunset Boulevard attracts actors and writers as a shrine. Here, Lana Turner was "discovered" at the soda fountain, a beauty among the bulrushes of banana splits.

To this day, blank-eyed girls actually wearing sweaters audition at Schwab's, drinking their coffee while looking for jobs in the Hollywood Reporter. They hope to be Carol Lynley types or Tuesday Weld types, just as the strange-looking gent with the cane and cape is auditioning for the next Victor Buono-type part.

The vanity, however, seems as forced as the meticulously chosen raiments. It seems no accident that Hollywood's hottest product these days are all-black adventure films. The apricot scarves in the ghetto are authentic symbols of vanity, signs of self-knowledge and yes, abandoned pride that flaunts itself defiantly.

Vanity as an auditioning technique has become magnified in the glare of the sexual revolution. California is the ultimate laboratory, of course, and a San Francisco radio station is pioneering in frank sex talk.

KNEW pitches its audience at "California gals" with a male talkmaster and at "California guys" from a female hostess. They ask questions like "What was your peak sexual experience?" and the answers are apt to drive you off the Bayshore Freeway.

Those telephone voices from Oakland and Sausalito sound real. They also sound desperate. How do they expect a radio audience to ennoble their most intimate revelations? Shyness at its depth is vanity at its height.

Whatever, KNEW is doing well in seducing enough of the 62-station radio market in the San Francisco bay area. The trend will certainly spread.

Hollywood's goals and virtues, meanwhile, recede into the dimness of memory. In the Hollywood Reporter, producer David Merrick complains that he can't fill the role of Nick Carraway in "The Great Gatsby." It seems that "ego" is the problem, taking the second banana role of a sensitive narrator would be too damaging.

Everyone wants to be Gatsby. That can't be all bad. The apricot-scarf market ought to boom.

Board of Regents Defies Governor

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — In a rare gesture of public defiance, the state Board of Regents has scorned Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's proposal for an education inspector general.

The vote at Wednesday's meeting was unanimous and emphatic. Regent Joseph T. King of Shelter Island raised his fist twice while exclaiming, "Aye."

In a news conference after the meeting, Chancellor Joseph T. McGovern of the Board of Regents and Education Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist could find nothing good to say about the governor's recommendation.

"Scholastic institutions are among the thriftiest in the nation," said Nyquist, disputing the governor's claim that the inspector general would root out waste and inefficiency. "They're not run like the Penn Central."

McGovern said the governor now controls the flow of money to local school districts through his budget office.

The statement adopted by the Regents, governing body of education in the state, said, in part:

"The objective of achieving increased economy and efficiency in education will not be realized through the uncoordinated duplication of existing state or local agencies and procedures."

The show of defiance was unusual because the Regents rarely take public exception to proposals of the governor.

In their meeting, the Regents also approved a group of meaures to strengthen state control on school transportation costs and school bus standards.

One measure, which requires legislative approval, would place a ceiling on state aid for the purchase of buses. This was designed to encourage districts to search for the lowest price available, perhaps through bidding on a state or regional basis.

In addition, the Regents suggested guidelines for school bus contract specifications and requirements for detailed reports on competitive bidding for school buses.

The Regents also asked the legislature to prohibit the use of ungarded railroad grade crossings unless allowed by the local board of education. Another proposal would require school bus drivers to submit to annual classes in safety.

In other action:

The Regents authorized the State University Center at Binghamton to award a bachelor's degree in technology degree, designed for engineering technicians seeking a college degree. The program would be offered in the late afternoon and evening.

Regent Stephen Kemp Ball of Syracuse resigned, effective April 30. He has been named a vice-president of the American Council on Education.

PICKETING AT ALBANY PORT — A group of Jews and their sympathizers picketed a Russian freighter at the Port of Albany, protesting persecution of Soviet Jews. Assemblyman Opposes Delay In Adirondack Park Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The lone Democratic assemblyman from the Adirondacks says, "I read my constituents differently" than his Republican colleagues do, and that he will not go along with attempts to stall action on a master zoning plan for the region.

Daniel Haley of Waddington said Wednesday that among his constituents "there is a great feeling that this is our heritage and we ought to preserve it."

He acknowledged that most of the local residents testifying at recent hearings into the Adirondack Park Agency's proposed zoning plan for private lands were bitterly critical of it. But, he said, a "silent majority" of Adirondack residents favors controls that will keep developments from ruining the scenic region.

Haley spoke at a news conference called by six Democratic assemblymen, who issued a statement declaring they will oppose a year's delay in adoption of the zoning plan.

Their action came one week after eight Republican lawmakers from the North Country announced that they were introducing legislation to put off consideration of the agency's plan until next year. Under present law, the legislature is supposed to review the proposal during this session.

Assemblyman Peter Berle of Manhattan, the ranking Democratic member of the Assembly environmental conservation committee, said Wednesday that there appears to be a proposal for a year's delay.

He noted that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller expressed strong opposition to the year's delay on Tuesday. And he added that "the Democrats provided the votes to pass the agency bill two years ago." In that vote, the Legislature overrode the objections of the same bloc of North Country legislators and established the Adirondack Park Agency.

Haley, who represents part of Franklin County and all of St. Lawrence County, noted that the 24,000-acre tract on which an Arizona developer plans a massive second-home project is in his district.

The Horizon Corp.'s plans for the project have raised fears among the local people that the area will be destroyed by large-scale developers from outside, he said.

In its preliminary form, the plan places sharp restrictions on development of almost 83 per cent of the 3.7 million acres of private land in the park.

Sen. Rolison Is Appointed

ALBANY — The appointment of State Senator Jay P. Rolison, Jr. Poughkeepsie as chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, was announced this week by Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson.

Rolison, who has served as a co-chairman of the committee since 1970 in charge of campaign activities from in the eastern portion of the state from Westchester north to the Canadian border, succeeds Sen. Anderson as chairman.

In announcing the appointment, the Republican Majority Leader said:

"Jay Rolison has greatly demonstrated on the Senate floor, when he has often been called on to preside over our deliberations in the absence of the Senate President, even though he has served as a member for the comparatively brief span of but six years."

"As chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, he is ably equipped to lead the efforts of our party in the continuing process of focusing on the issues and the rollcalls which will serve as the basis for the Statewide campaign to retain Republican control of the upper house in 1974."

Other members of the committee are Senator William T. Conklin, whose area of responsibility covers New York City; Senator John Caemmerer, for Long Island; Senator Tarky Lombardi, Jr., who succeeds Senator Anderson as the co-chairman for Central New York, and Senator Thomas McGowan, for Western New York.

'Don't Keep Son Alive' ... Onassis Told Doctors

ATHENS (AP) — "His brain was destroyed and his features completely disfigured." So Aristotle Onassis told the doctors not to keep his only son alive for a few more days.

Alexandros Onassis, 24, died Tuesday of injuries suffered when his new amphibious plane crashed as it was taking off from Athens airport. A battery of surgeons declared him beyond recovery although his heart was beating faintly, but they said he could be kept alive for three or four days.

"We decided it was in vain," the Greek shipping magnate told a news conference Wednesday night. "We weren't killing him. We were just letting him die. There is no question of mercy killing here."

Onassis said even if his son had lived, he would have been "dead as a human being ... His brain was destroyed and his features completely disfigured. Nothing could be done for him."

"We all have a certain life span," the 67-year-old father observed with a sigh. "What we don't know is when this span will end. In the case of this poor boy, fate decided that it would come before his 25th year was completed."

Onassis' voice dragged, and it was difficult to hear him. Heavy pouches were under his eyes. Sources close to the family said he had cried all night and had left the house twice to wander about the neighborhood.

Onassis also took issue with an official announcement that his son was piloting the 10-seat Italian Piaggio.

"I don't give a damn what the officials said," Onassis declared. "The truth is that Don-ald MacCusker was at the controls with Alexandros sitting by his side. Alexandros was not at the controls as stated."

"If Alexandros had been at the controls, maybe the accident could have been avoided. Alexandros made the mistake of trusting MacCusker's immense flying experience without considering that this was the first time MacCusker would be taking up this kind of plane."

MacCusker, 50, is from Columbus, Ohio. He and a British pilot who was also aboard, Donald MacGregor, were seriously injured.

Alexandros headed the helicopter and light craft division of Olympic Airways, which his father owns.

Meanwhile, friends of Onassis said the shipping magnate is so upset by the death of his only son, Alexandros, 24, that he feels like "selling everything" and leaving Greece.

The death, they said, made Onassis feel like selling his extensive holdings, which range from the Olympic Airways to his private island of Skorpios, and leaving Greece.

Thomas Edison Enshrined In Inventors' Hall of Fame

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (UPI) — Thomas Edison's daughter sat at the desk in her father's library and pressed a switch. A replica of the original incandescent light burned brightly.

Edison invented the incandescent light, the phonograph record, the motion picture camera and had patents on 1,090 other inventions.

Wednesday, he became the first member of the Inventors' Hall of Fame, and President Nixon has signed a resolution establishing Feb. 11, Edison's birthday, as National Inventors' Day.

Ten people gathered Wednesday in the spacious room that was Edison's library for a short, low-keyed ceremony.

Madeline Edison Sloane, 84, daughter of the inventor, walked to the ceremony from her home five blocks away in Llewellyn Park.

On the library desk was a book entitled "Who's Who in Engineering—1925." On the wall behind her was a sample demonstration phonograph record, dated Dec. 12, 1925, to be played on the machine he invented.

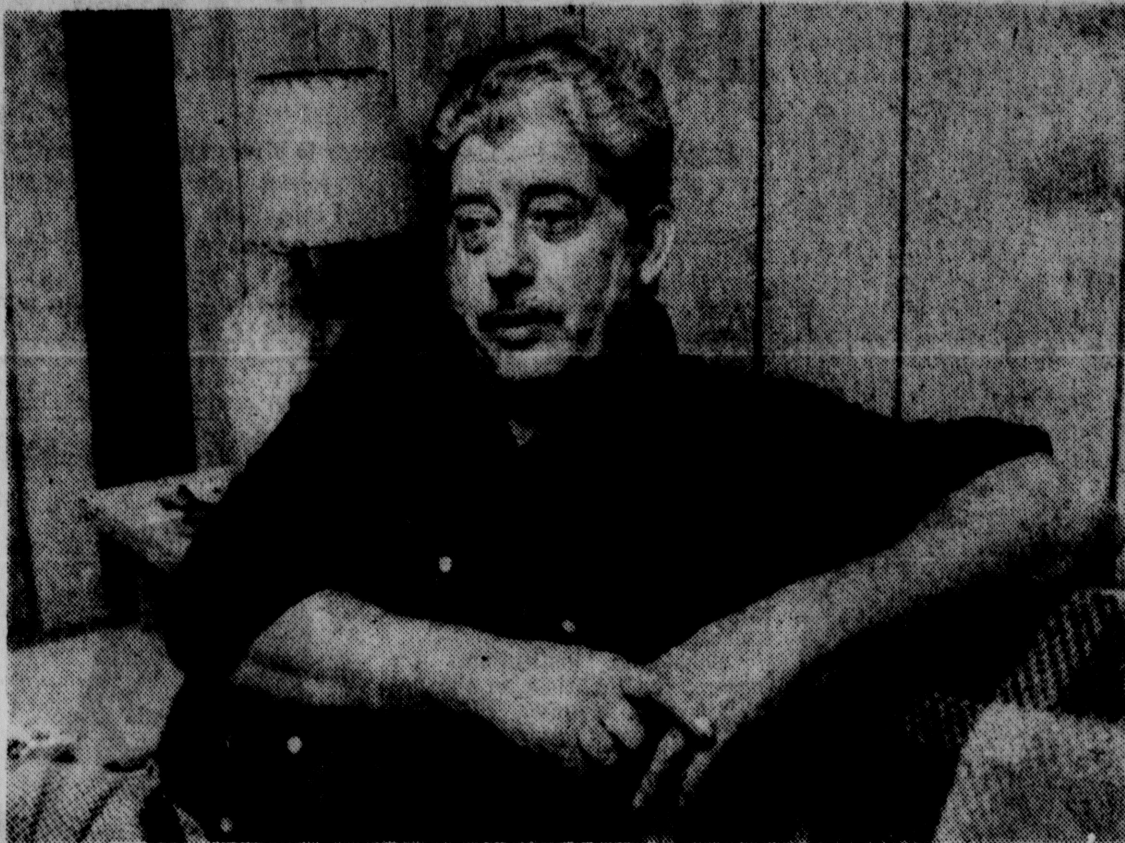

The library is part of a complex of buildings that served as Edison's laboratory from 1887 until his death in 1931.

She read a hand-written statement in appreciation of the honor.

Mrs. Sloane pointed to a cot near the desk in the carpeted library and remembered the many nights her father slept there. The library walls are lined with three tiers of books and is reached by a winding stairway.

"He wasn't afraid of hard work. He was always trying something new. Why, I remember the times when he used to call my mother and ask her to send down his dinner," she recalled.

It was at the laboratory at Menlo Park, about 20 miles to the south, that Edison invented the incandescent light and the phonograph. He moved to a bigger laboratory in West Orange and designed the motion picture camera, setting up the first movie studio to go with it.

NECESSARY DIVORCE — Howard Thomas relaxes as he talks to reporters recently in St. Petersburg, Fla. and tells of his plans to divorce his wife, who is stricken with multiple sclerosis. His wife is confined to a nursing home and the medical bills now exceed $2,500. Florida welfare authorities will not give him financial aid as he makes too much money as a steel plant foreman — so Thomas is divorcing his wife. She will then be considered single, with no income, hence, she will be eligible for welfare assistance. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Man Sentenced In Tool Case

KINGSTON Vincent E. Schoonmaker, 26, of 22 Stuyvesant Street, was sentenced Wednesday to one year in the Ulster County Jail on a charge of possession of burglar tools.

Schoonmaker, represented by court-appointed Attorney Edward T. Feeney, pleaded guilty to the charge before City Judge Hubert A. Richter. Schoonmaker was given credit for time already served since he was arrested Dec. 19 by Kingston police after they had discovered a window smashed in the Medical Building at 339 Albany Avenue. Schoonmaker was pursued and arrested in a car several blocks from the scene of the alleged burglary attempt. Burglar tools were found in the car, police said.

The District Attorney's office was represented by Assistant District Attorney Albert F. Hrdlicka.

WHITA Group Discusses Commissions

ELLENVILLE Proposed changes in the state's judiciary system and the Catskill and Adirondack Park Commissions were discussed at a meeting of the Southern Ulster County Committee of WHITA, the We've Had It Taxpayers Association, in the Ellenville Elementary School Wednesday night.

The committee's board of directors was directed to draw up a resolution to be sent to area representatives in the State Senate and Assembly and to Gov. Rockefeller, stating the group's opposition to proposed changes which would do away with town justices. The committee cited the loss of home rule as one reason for their opposition.

A resolution is also to be drawn up opposing alleged claims by the Park Commissions that they will be able to override local zoning laws, according to Floyd Bevier, president of the organization.

Asks Monument

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Kentucky Sen. Walter Dee Huddleston wants to build a monument in Washington to the Americans who served in the "tragic, frustrating and little understood" Vietnam War.

Huddleston, a freshman Democrat, said Wednesday he would introduce a bill to authorize a monument.

"In the euphoria that will come with the end of this tragic war, we must never forget the sacrifices which have been made by thousands of our young countrymen," Huddleston said.

Judge Renders Verdict In Marvin Fire Case

KINGSTON County Judge Raymond J. Mino rendered a verdict of not guilty by reason of mental disturbance and defect Tuesday in the arson-burglary case in which Dean (Constantine) Pappas was indicted by the grand jury in connection with a fire in the Bearsville home of relatives of actor Lee Marvin, June 20, 1971.

Joshua Koplovitz, counsel for the defendant, in a signed stipulation, agreed with Assistant District Attorney Ellenv G. Donovan that Pappas did set three fires in the home and take a car belonging to one Robert Marvin.

Religion Allowed

ATLANTA (UPI) — Federal Judge Newell Edenfield ordered two high ranking U.S. prison officials Wednesday to allow inmates to practice a new religion they call "The Church of the New Song."

Edenfield's order held Norman Carlson, director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons, and the bureau's chaplain, Frederick Silber, in contempt for refusing to recognize the religion.

Edenfield directed that all 30 federal prisons comply with the order. Prison officials said the religious sect, founded by prisoner Harry W. Thierault at Latuna, Tex., was a fraud supported only by the most hardened prisoners.

Papers and magazines should be tied securely or placed in paper bags or cartons for ease of handling. Cardboard is acceptable also but boxes should be flattened and tied.

Paltz Police Chief Appointed; Former Sheriff's Investigator

By MATT SPIRENG

NEW PALTZ After more than eight months of searching for a new Police Chief, the Village of New Paltz has appointed Harold T. Bowers as head of its police department. The Freeman has learned.

Bowers, who was chief investigator for the Ulster County Sheriff's Department until Monday, when he resigned from that post, will take over his duties as police chief on Feb. 5.

In announcing the appointment, Village Trustee John Logan, head of the village board's police committee, said, "We are pleased to have a man of his skill, experience and integrity."

"He is an experienced investigator, which is one of the major criteria which we were looking for in a police chief," Logan pointed out.

Bowers had been chief investigator for the Sheriff's Department since 1967, and was in charge of investigations covering all phases of crime and offenses, including felonies and misdemeanors.

Previous to that, Bowers, who turned 48 last Friday, was a patrolman with the Kingston Police Department for 11 years, and had served as chief constable for the Town of Rosendale for three years.

"I think we're very lucky to get such a good candidate," said New Paltz Mayor Henry DuBois. "I'm sure it will turn out to our advantage," he added, "he's had a lot of experience."

The search for a new police chief began when former chief James Walrath, announced in March that he would retire as the New Paltz Village Police of June 1, 1972. As it turned out, Walrath stayed on until the county, Bowers told The Freeman, "It already is one of last Saturday."

Sgt. Richard Thompson has served as acting police chief since Walrath's retirement.

"Sgt. Thompson did an excellent job as acting chief in carrying the department through a difficult time," Logan pointed out in announcing the new appointment.

Approximately 15 people applied for the post, and in October a successor to Walrath was apparently found when Kingston City Detective Joseph Feraca was named to the chief's post by the Village Board. Feraca subsequently turned down the position.

No such action will apparently be taken by Bowers. "I'm very pleased with the board's decision, and will try to make March that he would retire as the New Paltz Village Police of June 1, 1972. As it turned out, Walrath stayed on until the county, Bowers told The Freeman, "It already is one of last Saturday."

"and I want to keep it that way."

Feraca had indicated that the main reason he could not take the job was a lack of "security." His appointment was made subject to the taking of the next civil service chief's exam in Dec. 1973.

Bowers, too, will have to take that exam.

Bowers, who lives in Bloomington with his wife, Rose, a son, Timothy, 7, and a daughter, Pamela, 23, has attended and completed courses in numerous law enforcement schools. Included among these are investigator courses at Pace College, FBI schools, several bomb schools in New York City, several narcotics schools, and the New York State Police School.

Bowers' appointment as the new police chief was made by the Village Board at a meeting Aug. 31 before finally stepping out of last Saturday.

Paternity Petitions Show Decrease

KINGSTON New paternity petitions in Ulster County last year decreased by 50 per cent, according to a year-end report by Family Judge Hugh R. Elwyn. There were 80 cases in 1972 compared to 159 in 1971.

While juvenile delinquency cases remained constant with 82 cases received in 1972 against 86 in 1971, the number of family offense proceedings also declined from 288 to 241.

The number of new support petitions filed in 1972 also declined somewhat to 279 from a high of 312 as did Uniform Support of Dependents Law proceedings which declined from 263 to 250.

Judge Elwyn points out however that the decrease in the number of new cases filed in 1972 was more than offset by an increase in the number of child protective proceedings which increased from 82 to 108; there were 119 new cases to review the status of children in foster care and an increase in supplementary proceedings from 714 to 786.

The statistics, he explained, while accurately reporting the total number of cases, do not necessarily reflect the number of judicial hours devoted to the work of the court. For example, the contested case which takes a week or more to try is reported as one case as is the case which may be disposed of by stipulation in 10 minutes.

A decrease in the total number of cases heard and disposed of during the course of the year does not necessarily mean that its burden has been correspondingly lightened, nor does an increase in the total number of cases heard and disposed of during the year necessarily mean that its burden has been correspondingly increased.

The statistics, he said, simply do not reflect either time devoted to a particular case nor the complexity of the legal and social issues involved.

Judge Elwyn also pointed out that the reported statistics of the number of cases which were filed and disposed of during the year include only those cases which had first received a hearing. The statistics do not reflect the many hundreds of matters which were handled and disposed of informally by the Intake Service of the Probation Department without referral to the court.

Judge Elwyn reported that during 1972 support payments for dependent wives and children collected and disbursed through Family Court totaled $914,623.44, an increase of $49,834.68 or 5.8 per cent over the previous year.

Support cases for 1972 totaled 1,511, an increase of 111 or 7.9 per cent over the previous year. During 1972, 194 cases were closed leaving the total number of active cases for the year on which payments are being made at 1,317.

Since 1962, the first year of operation of the Family Court, support payments collected through court orders have risen from just over a quarter million dollars ($235,389.10) in 1962 to nearly $1 million ($914,623.44) in 1972, an increase of 288 per cent.

Rhinebeck Mayor Out of Race

RHINEBECK Mayor Peter F. Sipperley of Rhinebeck commented at a public meeting several weeks ago that he was considering bowing out of the mayoral race this year if "someone qualified can be found."

Apparently former mayor Robert Shackleton meets his qualifications.

For Sipperley has announced that he will not be a candidate for a third term of office as mayor, a position he assumed four years ago after serving as a village trustee under Shackleton.

The announcement brings to three the number of present office holders, up for reelection in Rhinebeck, who have decided to leave office April 1.

Trustee John Marks, also a veteran of two terms, told The Freeman that he would not seek another term in a telephone conversation Wednesday.

When asked why, he said that he had his reasons but did not want them published.

Francis Kinney, who would also have been seeking his third term as trustee, announced several days before that he would not be a candidate this March.

Shackleton has a ticket of two trustees and police justice running with him.

Incumbent Judge William Pollard is not on that ticket, but has reportedly decided that he intends to seek another term.

The Other Way

We were asked what to do if the gas pedal jams or motor speed cannot be controlled: "Don't take your eyes off the road trying to see what's wrong below. Shift into neutral immediately, even though the motor roars. Signal your slow-down and apply brakes cautiously, waiting for a safe spot to pull off the road. If the accelerator is sticking, pull it up to ascertain whether you can idle normally, and drive slowly to a garage. If there is uncontrollable speed again, stay put... wait for help." Our help is always here for you... we know that your welfare is our welfare.

Plattekill '73 Forecast

The Town of Plattekill Planning Board submitted its annual report to the Plattekill Town Board recently, and included a forecast of its objectives and activities for 1973.

According to chairman Onufry Orłowski, the Planning Board held 28 meetings, 13 public hearings and 701 workshop sessions during 1972. Sixteen subdivisions, involving 367 lots and 6.5 miles of roadway, were reviewed.

Orłowski also noted that the Planning Board has met on numerous occasions with the town's planning consultant, Ralph Seligman, of the firm of Mayo, Lynch and Associates, involving the Comprehensive Planning Report for the township and proposed zoning ordinances.

The zoning map and comprehensive plan, said Orłowski, will be presented to residents of the township through informational meetings scheduled for Plattekill, Modena and Clintondale.

3 Named for 4 Grammys

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Music Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Three recording artists—Aretha Franklin, Curtis Mayfield and Don McLean—each have four nominations for Grammy Awards.

The Grammys will be presented in 47 categories during a televised ceremony March 3 in Nashville, Tenn., it was announced Sunday night.

Grammy Awards—to the recording industry what Oscars are to the film world—are voted on by 3,000 members of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences. Records eligible for the upcoming awards were released between Oct. 16, 1971, and Oct. 15, 1972.

Miss Franklin's nominations come in three categories: pop singing, for "Day Dreaming"; rhythm and blues singing, for "Young, Gifted and Black," and soul gospel singing, for "Amazing Grace" and "Precious Memories," the latter a duet with James Cleveland.

Mayfield is nominated for rhythm and blues singing, "Freddie's Dead," for rhythm and blues instrumental performance, "Junkie Chase," for rhythm and blues songwriting, "Freddie's Dead," and motion picture or TV score writing, "Superfly."

Don McLean's four nominations are for "American Pie." They are in the categories of record of the year, album of the year, song of the year (a writer's award) and pop singing.

Record of the year, considered the big prize, will be one of: "Alone Again (Naturally)," sung by Gilbert O'Sullivan, "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face" by Roberta Flack, "Song Sung Blue" by Neil Diamond, "Without You" by Nilsson or "American Pie" by McLean.

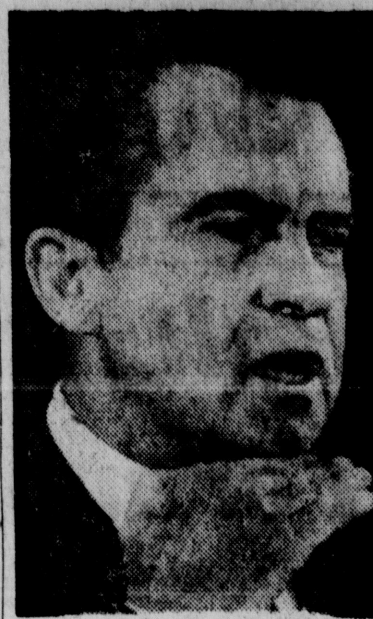

Album of the Year nominees are "The Concert for Bangladesh," performed by George Harrison and Friends; "Jesus Christ Superstar," the original Broadway cast; "Moods," by Neil Diamond; "Nilsson Schmilsson," by Nilsson, and "American Pie."

Five writers are nominated for song of the year honors: O'Sullivan for "Alone Again

(Naturally)," Ewan McColl for "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face," Diamond for "Song Sung Blue," Michel Legrand for "The Summer Knows" and McLean for "American Pie."

Best new artist to emerge will be declared: America, Harry Chapin, Eagles, Kenny Loggins and Jim Messina or John Prine.

Nominees in the best pop vocal performance area are Carly Simon for "Anticipation," Miss Franklin for "Day Dreaming," Helen Reddy for "I Am Woman," Roberta Flack for "Quiet Fire" and Barbra Streisand for "Sweet Inspiration Where You Lead."

'Pay Those Back Taxes' ...Lefkowitz Orders RR

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Re-acting to newspaper reports that the Penn Central Railroad has spent $2.5 million on legal fees in the past two years, New York State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz has once again asked that the financially troubled railroad pay its back taxes to the state and municipalities.

"It seems only proper that the line undertake to meet

Distributor Sues

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The U.S. distributor of Datsun automobiles sued two men for a half million dollars Wednesday over an advertising circular for a nonfactory service manual.

Nissan Motor Corp said the "false and misleading" circular was mailed to a substantial number of the more than 500,000 Datsun owners in the United States.

The company claimed trademark infringement, libel and unfair competition in its Superior Court suit against Steven Slavin and Charles A. Collins.

Nissan said the circular asserted that Datsun owners have expressed dissatisfaction with repair service and that Datsun's original factory manual is inadequate.

After Lefkowitz's original request, the court permitted Penn Central to defer the payment of taxes except in cases where its unpaid taxes equal at least 15 per cent of a municipality's annual budget.

He said many communities in New York are facing tight budgets and need the tax money.

One Killed in Raid On African Farm

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — A middle-aged white woman was killed and her husband wounded Wednesday night in an attack by Africans on their tobacco farm in the Centenary area about 90 miles northeast of Salisbury, reliable sources reported today.

Progress Showing

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Progress is showing aside the trappings of the lusty old Singapore waterfront.

Soon little will be left in the immediate harbor area to conjure visions of the bad old days of brawling seamen's bars, opium dens, and incense-scented brothels behind every other door.

Wrecking balls are crashing through the walls knocking down the buildings that might have housed such goings-on in the colonial past, to make room for modern concrete, steel and glass towers.

Singapore is far from losing its Asian ways, however, and the planners promise it will never be turned into another Wall Street.

You can still look out on a harbor alive with the bustle of water taxis and open hull lighters whose Chinese owners have painted dragon eyes on the prow to avoid collisions on the jade-green waters of the world's fourth largest business port.

You can walk down waterfront sidewalks where Indian money changers thrust the currencies of a dozen nations under your nose and ask, "Change money?" It doesn't matter if you want to convert your money into local currency or the other way around. They'll make a profit either way.

You can step from the customs counter on Clifford Pier right into one of the world's most active commercial districts. Big British and Chinese trading houses with gray granite fronts look down on the pier across Collyer Quay.

Street vendors offer chicken soup from steaming cauldrons, milky bean curd juice from plastic tubs and tidbits of chilled pork wrapped in rice or bread and a banana leaf wrapped around that, amid a constant babble in the Malay, Chinese, Indian and English.

But alongside the traditional and the familiar on the Singapore waterfront, are new and quite different landmarks-to-be.

On one stretch of waterfront property—a three-block area that was last used as a parking lot and an all-night noodle stand—six giant skyscrapers are going up, one to be 50 stories high.

In two years, predicts government architect Alan Choe, the waterfront area will be almost wholly transformed.

Two and three stories off the ground, he says, will be public podium areas connecting the new buildings and fitting into a waterfront garden-park adjoining the commercial district. It will be in front of Singapore's courthouse, city hall and big green cricket pitch.

"In two years, a tourist will be able to walk through a series of comfortable, air-conditioned shopping arcades on the podium levels, across the avenues on covered foot bridges and into the parks along a developed area two and a half miles long," Choe said.

And in the years beyond the immediate future, there are plans for more new commercial waterfront developments, one an 82-story building complex covering 33 acres.

Choe says the government's urban renewal plans take care to preserve the old trading center character of Singapore where possible. Situated in the middle of the forest of concrete rising on the waterfront now, Choe points out, is a quaint old one-story building that looks as if it were built to house a merry-go-round.

Sixth Operation

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Aides said Gov. George Wallace would enter the University of Alabama Medical Center at Birmingham today for "elective" urinary tract surgery.

The operation is needed to ease urinary drainage hampered by spinal cord surgery performed following the assassination attempt on Wallace at Laurel, Md. last May.

It will be Wallace's sixth operation since he was partially paralyzed in the shooting.

Nixon to Present $268 Billion Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will submit to Congress on Monday a federal budget totaling between $268 and $269 billion for the 1974 fiscal year, administration officials said today.

The budget will be the first explicit affirmation of Nixon's reported intention to wipe out a number of the "Great Society" programs left over from the Johnson era, including the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), which conducts the war on poverty.

Nixon already has made it clear in his inaugural address and statements after the election that he wants to reduce the federal government's role in the daily lives of Americans and to discourage what he calls "Washington paternalism."

The budget will continue to include a whopping $80 billion or so defense outlay for next spending year.

The President will send his annual economic report to Congress on Wednesday, Jan. 31, and it is expected to reflect a rosy outlook in cooling inflation and bolstering the economy.

Later next week Nixon is expected to send his State of the Union message to Capitol Hill. He has decided not to deliver it in person.

The President's direction in the coming year has more or less been defined in his inaugural. His State of the Union message therefore was expected to indicate cutbacks rather than innovations and not many surprises for the lawmakers.

Wedding Handbooks Available

In view of all the latest and greatest developments on the wedding scene, the Women's Department of The Daily Freeman is offering now, free of charge, handbooks on wedding etiquette. Entitled "For the Marrying Kind" and published by After Six, Inc., the handbook has, to date, reached 1,500,000 in distribution.

According to BRIDE'S Magazine, more young people than ever before are altar-bound. Among the young, the consensus favors color. In fact, this spring, the most colorful character in the wedding party is most likely to be the bridegroom. Traditional blacks and greys are being supplemented by an explosion of rainbow-hued finery.

Traditionally, the bride has well-nigh overshadowed her intended, fashionwise. Now, with all the variety and excitement in formal apparel, men are fast becoming the most festive members of the wedding.

LaLeche League Discussion Series To Begin Jan. 30

Kingston La Leche League will begin a new series of four discussion groups on Tuesday, Jan. 30, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Susan Leatherman, 261 Pearl Street, Kingston. Mrs. Pan Ustick, a qualified La Leche League leader, will lead a discussion on "The Advantages of Breastfeeding to Mother and Baby," including those advantages observed by the members themselves: emotional closeness to the baby, convenience, practicality, economic, as well as those advantages discovered in scientific research: nutritional, allergy resistance, digestibility.

La Leche League is now into its third year in Kingston. This group is one of more than 1000 similar groups throughout this world affiliated with La Leche League International, an organization formed 15 years ago to inform and lend support to women interested in breastfeeding. To encourage informality, the meetings are held at the homes of members.

Mrs. Ruth Scogna, the other

LLL leader, has announced the dates for the remaining meetings in the series: February 27, "The Art of Breastfeeding — Overcoming Difficulties," March 27, "The Baby Arrives: The Family and the Breastfed Baby," April 24, "Nutrition and Weaning."

In the past, Kingston La Leche League has sponsored childbirth films, panel gynecologists and pediatricians, appeared on Kingston Cablevision, as well as other activities ranging from family picnics to fund-raising events such as flea markets and bake sales.

LLL maintains an extensive library of books on childbirth, breastfeeding, childcare, and nutrition available for loan at the meetings, along with pamphlets, on many specialized topics of breastfeeding.

Additional information on breastfeeding or LLL may be had by contacting Mrs. Scogna or Mrs. Ustick. For Directions to Tuesday night's meeting, persons should contact Mrs. Leatherman.

Nursing Legislative Forum to Be Held

An open forum, sponsored by the New York State Nurses Association, will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 31, at 7:30 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Residence at Benedictine Hospital, Kingston. The forums are for the discussion of NYSNA's proposed legislative program for the 1973 Session of the New York State Legislature and other issues of concern for nursing practitioners.

A major topic of discussion will be a NYSNA proposal for mandatory continuing education as a requirement for registration of nursing licenses for registered professional nurses and licensed practical nurses. Mary Hamdi of NYSNA's Council on Continuing Education, Erlene McGriff of NYSA's Committee on Legislation and a representative of the Licensed Practical Nurses of New York, Inc. will be attending the forum to explain the mandatory continuing education proposal and to answer questions concerning that proposal and other legislative issues of interest to nursing practitioners.

Institutional licensure and financial assistance for nursing education, as well as issues of social concern such as welfare and prison reform, alcoholism, day care programs, birth related services and programs for the aging and the mentally retarded will be discussed.

The forum will be open to the public. Veronica M. Driscoll, NYSNA Executive Director, stated "these forums will give nursing practitioners the opportunity to discuss issues of concern for themselves and hear the concerns of the public regarding health care."

DEAR ABBY: Please warn girls against hitchhiking rides with men. Girls who get into a car with a strange man are just begging for trouble, but there is another side to it which few people consider.

My husband has a problem he has been trying to overcome for six years. It's a compulsion to expose himself to young women. He is not a rapist, he only does this to get a thrill from their reaction. He has never touched a girl. One of these girls reported him to the police and he is now facing the possibility of having to leave me and our three small children for a jail term on a charge of indecent exposure.

I am not condoning his actions but he has finally faced his problem and is getting psychiatric treatment. He is a good husband and provider, and the children adore him and so do I. I plan to help him thru this crisis, but I need help from everyone else of my sex.

Abby, please ask girls not to hitchhike with strange men. They may be giving someone who is trying to go straight an opportunity to stray again, and the price is paid by his family.

WORRIED FOR MY HUSBAND

DEAR WORRIED: I agree, hitchhiking is a risky business for all concerned. While I appreciate your understanding attitude and your empathy to your husband, he cannot shift the responsibility for his compulsion to the girls who are foolish enough to hitchhike with him. He is doing the right thing in facing up to his problem and getting psychiatric treatment. But public sympathy is more on the side of the hitchhikers than the man with such a problem.

DEAR ABBY: My husband sleeps all over the bed. He rolls on top of me or pushes me off the bed in his sleep. He sleeps so soundly it's impossible to wake him up. I ask him to please roll over, he does — on me!

The next morning he doesn't remember a thing. All his life he's had a full-sized bed to himself, and he's accustomed to sleeping that way without giving anybody else a thought. We have been married for two years and I haven't had a good night's sleep yet.

We are buying new bedroom furniture and I want twin beds. He says he isn't ready for that yet, and he wants a king-sized bed. What is your advice?

SLEEPYTIME GAL

DEAR GAL: Compromise. Get the twin beds with a single headboard. That way you'll each have your own mattress. And if you can get the kind that "swing" apart, by all means do. I have an idea you may need them.

DEAR ABBY: Another miserable holiday season has passed and I made a New Year's resolution that rather than be in the middle of another power struggle between my parents and my in-laws, my husband and I are going to take a trip somewhere and not spend Thanksgiving and Christmas with either.

We started to "alternate," spending one Thanksgiving with one set of parents and Christmas with the other. The biggest problem was my mother. She felt that if she couldn't have all her children with her every holiday, she was neglected. My in-laws were willing to accept the every-other-year decision.

Last Thanksgiving was the last straw. After driving 300 miles to spend Thanksgiving with my mother, she said, "I wish you'd come for Christmas, too. Next year I may be dead, and then you'll be sorry you didn't."

Now, how could I go to my in-laws for Christmas and enjoy myself with that kind of goody?

HAD IT IN IOWA
DEAR HAD IT: I don't know. But why punish your in-laws because your mother is selfish?

DEAR ABBY: I sure hope that lady who said she and her husband didn't have any sex relations for more than 12 years doesn't find out (like I did) that SHE was going without but her husband wasn't. My husband was being "served" by a waitress for six years, and all the time I felt so sorry for him. I thought he lost his manhood because he had had a prostate operation. We've divorced now, so it doesn't matter anymore, but some wives can be too trusting.

DUMMY IN DETROIT

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE
WHY IS IT ALWAYS THE HUSBAND'S RAZOR?

Nice to know that you were successful with the shaving method. Sometime you might try using nylon net, but of course, it depends on the material you are working with.

Wet a wrinkled-up piece of net and rub away; the holes in the net will grab most of the tiny pills and pull them off.

love from,
Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I always put one-half cup of vinegar in the final diaper rinse water. It helps get out the soap residue and my baby hasn't had any trouble with diaper rash since I started doing this.

Dear Heloise:
When making pizza out of hot roll mix, and more is needed to make a larger pizza, add more flour and a little more shortening. J.M.P.

Dear Heloise:
You may call this something different, but I call it "shaving a dress." You have seen polyester and nylon dresses "pill" up after repeated dry cleanings or laundering; they just do not look as neat as when they were new.

I decided to try to remove the pills without disturbing the fabric, and found that inserting a new safety razor blade in my husband's razor, and then shaving the material while holding it firmly on a flat surface, did the trick.

Of course, a person should be cautious and it might be a good idea to practice on something which is ready to be discarded anyway. Just as a man can cut himself, I suppose you could cut the fabric weave and make a hole, but I never have yet.

After the shaving process, the material looks new again. I just thought I would pass this on to your readers who may have a dress or other garment that has these unsightly pills on it.

Mrs. Mildred Turner

Maple Trees in the Back Yard Can Easily Be Tapped for Syrup

All over the northeastern United States and Canada are maple trees that can easily be tapped to make up to a gallon of 100 per cent maple syrup per tree. Yet many homeowners go on paying $10 - $15 per gallon, even though this delicious food is free — literally — right in their own back yards.

Maple syrup is made simply by boiling the sap of the maple tree — sugar, black, red, or silver maple. This boiling causes the water to evaporate off, leaving pure maple syrup. If the sap is boiled longer, the result is maple sugar. Nothing is ever added. Maple syrup and maple sugar are the natural, organic products of the maple tree.

Furthermore, it can be absolutely safe to tap a maple tree year after year for syrup.

PURE MAPLE SYRUP

A proper tap will cause no injury whatsoever. There are maple groves that have continued to grow and flourish after being tapped every year for over a century. The small amount of sugar taken is usually less than 10 per cent of the tree's annual production, and the trees heal themselves automatically. The hole doesn't even have to be plugged.

The best months for sap runs are February, March, and April, when the nights are very cold, but the days are getting warmer. A rule of thumb is the very best sap weather is a 20 - degree night followed by a 45 - degree midday. The week of Washington's Birthday in late February is generally when the first taps should go in the trees to catch the early sap, which has the highest sugar content and flows in greatest quantity.

One of the newest items on the market is a "Sugaring-Off Kit" with which the do-it-yourselfer can safely and easily tap his own maple trees and make syrup or maple sugar. Included are five professional sap spouts with bucket hooks, a cloth syrup filter, and complete, easy-to-follow instructions for every step of the operation from tree recognition to making and bottling the finished product. The booklet also contains over a dozen proven country maple recipes, and as an extra bonus, the kit comes with 16 maple syrup jar labels for the amateur producer to personalize with his own name for unique gift giving.

The only additional items needed are to be found in any household: buckets (wood, metal, or plastic), a light hammer, an ordinary wood drill with a 7/16-inch bit, a big pot for boiling the sap, and an ordinary kitchen colander.

To get the authentic "Sugaring-Off Kit", send $5.50 plus 45 cents to: John Green, Prop., The Clinton Hollow Store, Salt Point, N.Y. 12578.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(c) 1973, Emily Post Institute, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post:
I recently attended the wedding of the son of my very best friend and of all the weddings I have attended, this was the worst. I would like your opinion.

After the engagement was announced, the young man's family had the girl's family to their house so that every one could get acquainted. It was a very pleasant evening and the boy's family thought everything would be in order. From that evening until the day of the wedding, the boy's parents never heard one word as to how the wedding plans were progressing, not even as to the colors the bride party would be wearing.

The boy presented his guest list and was told he had too many, so his parents offered to pay for any extra guests since he had a few more relatives and friends he wanted to invite. The mother of the girl said "No." When the declines from her side came in, the boy asked if he could fill in, and her mother told him there were no more invitations left.

As far as the wedding presents are concerned, none of the young man's side have as yet seen one of them.

After the reception, the bride party was invited to the home of a relative of the bride's, but neither the groom's parents nor any of his side were included.

Such treatment was all uncalculated for since his parents and family were very nice to this young lady and none of them can understand why they were treated like this. It has created a very cool feeling toward this new bride. Will you please give me your opinion of all this?

Mrs. J.T.

Dear Mrs. T.:
My opinion is the same as yours. Obviously the treatment accorded the groom's family was inexcusable. However, I can't help but ask why the son did nothing about it? Surely his parents expressed their feelings to him.

Moss Returns to UCCC as Assistant Coach

SCORE — The puck zips past Bruins' goalie Ed Johnston (top) and into the net (bottom) as Ranger Bill Fairbairn scores a shorthanded goal Wednesday to help New York down Boston, 4-2. Fairbairn scored when he came in on a two-on-one break with teammate Walt Tkaczuk (18). With Boston defenseman Bobby Orr (behind Tkaczuk) leading toward Tkaczuk, Fairbairn faked a pass to his center, then shot the puck past Johnston. (UPI)

Perfect Game Means Victory for Rangers

"We played a perfect hockey game," decided Vic Hadfield, captain of the New York Rangers.

Armed with that piece of information, it shouldn't surprise you that the Rangers whipped Boston 4-2 Wednesday night, stretching their National Hockey League unbeaten streak to eight games. Perfect hockey will do that for you.

Elsewhere in the NHL Wednesday night, Montreal slung the New York Islanders 6-1, Pittsburgh slugged Toronto 5-2, California defeated Atlanta 5-2, Chicago tied Vancouver 3-3, and St. Louis downed Los Angeles 7-5.

In the World Hockey Association, it was New England 6, Winnipeg 1; and Philadelphia 6, Quebec 4.

Jean Ratelle got the Rangers an early first-period goal and after Johnny Bucyk tied it for the Bruins, New York used goals less than two minutes apart by Brad Park and Bill Fairbairn to take control.

Wayne Cashman's third-period goal narrowed the gap for the Bruins but Walt Tkaczuk hit an empty net in the final minutes to clinch the victory.

"We controlled the play and ground it out, just like a football team grinds out yardage," said Hadfield, who contributed a pair of assists, reaching 500 career points.

The victory moved the Rangers four points ahead of third place Boston in the NHL's East Division. New York remained seven points back of first place Montreal which thumped the Islanders.

The Canadiens used four second-period goals by Chuck LeFevre, Guy Lapointe, Henri Richard and Jacques Laperriere to take control against the Islanders.

Gerry Hart had New York's only goal as rookie netminder Wayne Thomas, filling in for injured Ken Dryden and Michel Plasse, earned his sixth consecutive victory for the Canadiens.

Bryan Hextall scored two goals as Pittsburgh downed Toronto.

The Penguins and Maple Leafs swapped first period goals before Hextall put Pittsburgh in front for good early in the second period.

Atlanta dropped its third straight game as California broke a second period tie with goals by Ivan Boldirev and Stan Weir and then added two more in the final period by Reg Leach and Hilliard Graves.

Jim Pappin's goal with less than three minutes left in the game gave Chicago its tie against Vancouver and moved the Black Hawks five points ahead of idle Minnesota at the top of the NHL West.

Mike Murphy and Floyd Thompson scored two goals apiece, leading St. Louis past Los Angeles. Bob Berry had three goals for the season, tops in the West Division.

Andre Lacroix had two goals for Philadelphia, his 32nd and 33rd of the campaign, and Parent stopped 41 shots in the Blazer net.

"We sure needed this win," said Phil Watson, who has relieved McKenzie of the coaching duties. "Now fourth place is within our grasp."

In the only other game played Wednesday night, the New England Whalers moved into a tie for first place with Cleveland in the East by routing the West Division leaders from Winnipeg, 6-1.

Brad Selwood scored two goals and assisted on another for New England while goalie Al Smith stopped all but one of the 41 shots Winnipeg sent at him.

Worsley played 831 regular season games — more than any other active goalie.

He won the National Hockey League's Vezina trophy as the outstanding goalie in the league in 1965-66 and 1967-68 while playing for Montreal.

Worsley said he "felt there was no use in me going in there not feeling that I can do the job. I'd be letting everybody down and losing the players' money. I don't want to take money under false pretenses."

When announcing his retirement, Worsley said he "felt there was no use in me going in there not feeling that I can do the job. I'd be letting everybody down and losing the players' money. I don't want to take money under false pretenses."

STONE RIDGE
One of Ulster County Community College's all-time basketball greats is returning to the Stone Ridge campus.

At a noon press conference today, Athletic Director Mike Perry announced that Jerry Moss, Ulster's scoring ace and floor leader of the 1968-69-70 seasons will report Feb. 1 as an instructional assistant and assistant varsity basketball coach.

In the event that Coach Perry takes a one-year sabbatical leave in 1974, Moss will serve as the interim varsity coach.

"We're pleased to have Jerry back on campus," said Perry. "We think he's just the man for the job."

Moss, one of three superstars developed at Ulster up to the current Jackie Knowles-Henry Nixon era, averaged 20.1 points a game in his two seasons with the Senators. In his freshman

JERRY MOSS

During the 1969-70 season, Moss scored 542 points for a 19.4 average. His career totals were 1105 points in 55 games and a 20.1 average.

Moss had a single game high of 41 points. He was voted Most Valuable Player in the Mid-Hudson Conference for two straight years and was named to the All-Region XV team once. Moss was also accorded All-American team honorable mention by the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA).

The announcement of the Moss appointment coincided with one of Ulster's biggest games of the season, Farmingdale of Long Island, the second ranked team in Region XV is scheduled for a Saturday night appearance at the Senate Gym is one of the teams rated the best chance of blocking Ulster's bid for a second straight region title enroute to a repeat in the NJCAA Nationals.

MIKE PERRY

Coach Tom Galeazzi has a veteran squad with three first stringers in the lineup. The Aggies captured their first eight games with a 76.5 average on offense and the top defensive average in Region XV with a stingy 54.6 point yield per game.

Farmingdale doesn't have a single player in the top ten scoring list in the region, but claims the third best rebounder in Charlie Whitworth with a 14.6 mark. Coleman Link of Ulster was at 14.0 in his first 15 games.

Coach Perry reported that the Ulster players have made a complete recovery from their bouts with the flu and assorted injuries during the Robert Morris Classic debacle in Illinois.

"Everybody is in good shape and ready for Farmingdale," said Mike. "We have had reports that their top rebounder (Whitworth) is out of action but have not been able to confirm it."

UCLA Sets Sights on No. 60

CHICAGO (AP) — Top-ranked UCLA's seemingly invincible Bruins tonight launch an historic two-game Midwest invasion which should gild their already phenomenal dynasty with collegiate basketball's longest skein of consecutive victories.

Rockets Snap Kentucky Jinx

By United Press International
The Denver Rockets' Kentucky jinx finally ended Wednesday night after four years.

The Rockets had been unable to win a game at Kentucky since the American Basketball Association was founded, but they changed all that Wednesday night as Warren Jabali led a last-quarter surge that carried Denver to a 98-67 victory over the Colonels.

Kentucky, trailing by 10 points at the half, outscored the Rockets 25-16 in the third quarter to trail by only one point. But Jabali hit 10 of his 26 points in the final period and Denver outscored the Colonels 27-17 to secure the victory.

Byron Beck added 21 points for the Rockets while Dan Issel had 24 and Artis Gilmore 23 for the Colonels.

In the only other ABA game, Willie Wise hit a pair of layups with less than six minutes to play to lift the Utah Stars to a 111-103 triumph over the Dallas Chaparrals.

Dallas, with Rich Jones and Larry Jones leading the way, had cut the Stars' lead to just two points when Wise hit a layup and 20 seconds later, he stole a pass and drove for another basket that broke the back of the Chaps' rally.

Ron Boone had 25 points for the Stars and Wise and Zelmo Beaty finished with 20 each. Rich Jones was high man for Dallas with 34 and Larry Jones hit 19.

Blazers Making Their First Move

By United Press International
Johnny McKenzie and the Philadelphia Blazers are finally beginning to make an impression on the World Hockey Association.

After a good deal of fanfare when they signed such former National League stars as McKenzie, Derek Sanderson and Bernie Parent, the Blazers fell flat on their face once the season started, quickly falling to the bottom of the Eastern Division.

But the Blazers seem to have caught on now, and by whipping the Quebec Nordiques, 6-4, Wednesday night they climbed to within three points of fifth place Ottawa.

In addition, Philadelphia is now only six points behind the fourth place Nordiques, putting them in position to challenge for a playoff berth.

McKenzie, who also got off to a slow start due to his dual role as player and coach and because of injury, led the Philadelphia victory with a hat trick, lifting his goal total to 16.

His first goal in the opening period gave the Blazers a 3-1 lead, then, after Quebec drew even, he scored twice more within a three-minute span of the final period to provide the winning margin.

Andre Lacroix had two goals for Philadelphia, his 32nd and 33rd of the campaign, and Parent stopped 41 shots in the Blazer net.

Yankees Are Ready to Go

By IRA FUSFELD

ALBANY

The Yankees brought their 13th annual Winter Caravan here Wednesday to clue-in the area media on what's in store for 1973, and as expected the emphasis was on the New Yorkers going all the way.

"I know I'm an eternal optimist," Manager Ralph Houk told the members of the press, radio, and television assembled at the Hyatt House, "but I know people are listening to me more than last year."

"If we had Graig Nettles and Matty Alou (both of whom the Yanks acquired since the end of last season) we would have won it. Our job this year is to keep everything else intact."

Houk was thus saying that he was going into spring training with a set lineup and that the only real question marks are the last few pitching jobs and the infield reserves. Nettles at third, Gene Michael at shortstop, Horace Clarke at second, and either Felipe Alou or Ron Blomberg at first will be the infielders. Roy White, Bobby Murcer, and Matty Alou will handle the outfield, and Thurman Munson will catch.

And in answer to questions about his plans for Celerino Sanchez or Ron Swoboda, or Johnny Callison, Houk quickly replied, "A ballclub is no stronger than its bench."

Houk doesn't think last year's finish (six and a half games off the pace) was our potential last year and had a real good year. But, except for Sparky (Lyle), I think everyone can improve this year.

Lyle, who had the super season in relief, would be hard pressed, Houk admitted, to duplicate that feat. The reliever, who was present on crutches due to a recent basketball accident echoed the thought: "I can't have a much better year than I had last year," the now-mustachioed hurler said. "I'll be satisfied saving 10 games and winning the pennant."

Much concern was expressed about the leg injury and how it will affect his pitching. "He doesn't pitch with his leg," Houk bellowed.

That Lyle was hurt playing basketball probably didn't endear himself to the front office because such an activity is a no-no.

"I shouldn't have been playing," Sparky admitted. "It was just a freak thing. I never was any good at the game."

Lyle says he'll be ready for spring training, which opens in

Ft. Lauderdale on Feb. 21.

Other players at Wednesday's session dittoed the optimistic forecast for the team, but naturally they were most interested in their individual roles for the season.

Mike Kekich, the lefty who had such a good first half, then tailed off miserably, says he's anxious to make the starting rotation not as a fourth man, but as the No. 1 starter.

Michael acknowledged his pleasure at being able to go to camp knowing the shortstop job is his and said he wouldn't mind if the designated pinch-hitter rule forces him to the ninth spot in the batting order.

Swoboda said he was just happy to be with the club in any capacity and made a point of asking GM Lee MacPhail if plans for the new Yankee Stadium include eliminating the pillars from the bench as well as from the stands so that he'd have a good view. "I'm not going to talk myself off this team," Swoboda smiled, referring to his experience with the Mets and the late Gil Hodges.

The largest laugh of the day was reserved for coach Ellie Howard, who said, "I'm looking forward to it (this season) because I need the money," to which broadcaster Bill White replied, "Elston Howard has short arms, they never reach his pockets."

EXTRA BASES — Houk says the Yanks will battle Detroit, Boston, and Baltimore again for the division title, but that Cleveland is a club to be reckoned with. . . . The Yankee manager is in favor of the designated pinch-hitter rule. He thinks the Tigers might benefit most from it this year what with all their older long-ball hitters. . . . MacPhail reported that everything is ready for the Yanks' move to Shea Stadium while Yankee Stadium is refurbished. . . . On the change of team owners, MacPhail noted that contrary to public belief, CBS was "a good owner." He feels fans never could relate to the large corporation, something they will be able to do with the Mike Burke syndicate now in control.

Houk on Nettles: "We'd be satisfied with about 20 homers and 80 to 85 runs batted in from him."

DPH Has Houk Planning

By STEVE KANE

ALBANY

As any discussion of baseball is going to do for the next few months, the topic of the Yankees press caravan's annual visit to the Capital City Wednesday centered mainly around the new, designated pinch hitter rule of the American League.

Except for a few dissenting voices from the pitchers' ranks, the reaction to the new rule has been favorable around the entire league. In the Yankee's case, and these days they may be considered a "typical" team, manager Ralph Houk outlined what possibilities may be in store for his Bombers from the tactical end.

"We'll operate according to what park we're in and who's a bevy of aging powerhitters pitching, and we'll utilize the players we have to get the most out of the rule," Houk said.

In other words, the Yanks, with their major trades already made and their personnel for the coming season reasonably established, intend to take the new ruling pretty much in stride, like most other AL clubs and unlike Boston which wasted little time in acquiring Orlando Cepeda with the hope he'll soon be punching their holes in Fenway Park's silly infield fence.

But while the Bosox made a move that was aimed directly at taking advantage of the new rule, some clubs do not appear to have to go to such an extent. Detroit, as several Clark for leadoff duties and custom made to fill the position, new ruling gives the Major the Yankees, from a different angle, may also find the setup to their liking.

Start with history — last season New York finished fourth place, 6½ games out of first in a close Eastern Division race. That's not all that wide a margin over a 162-game schedule. Offense was the Yankees' weakest suit during '72, but even with a lack of hitting they came that close. Nettles and Alou obviously do much to fill that gap, but the DPH rule may make it all go together.

Houk points out that Nettles' presence in the lineup will take much of the pressure off Bobby Murcer. It will also free Horace

Clark for leadoff duties and make his speed on the basepaths more of a factor. The year he's got some good bats. Ron Swoboda, Ron Blomberg, Alou and even John Callison can expect to see some DPH action this year.

Speaking of the ruling, Houk commented, "It will make the games closer, there won't be anymore automatic outs when the pitchers are up, there won't be anymore weak innings. It's just going to add more offense to the game."

Of all the clubs in the AL East, that's an area where the Yankees can improve the most. Perhaps this is the year the Major's eternal optimism will finally bear fruit again.

Spahn Made It . . . Others Must Wait

NEW YORK (UPI) — Warren Spahn made the Hall of Fame on his first try, but the others will have to wait at least another year—and there may be cries again for baseball to ease the restrictions.

Spahn's election Wednesday—and the rejection for 1973 of former stars like Whitey Ford, Ralph Kiner, Robin Roberts and the late Gil Hodges—raised questions about the rigid qualifications for the Hall by the Baseball Writers Association of America, and even Spahn said he was sad to be the only one picked.

"I'm delighted with the honor," he said. "I'm only sorry there aren't other players here with me."

"But," he added, "that's why it's such an honor for any player to get in."

The selection of the 51-year-old Spahn, winningest left-handed pitcher in major league history (363 victories, all but seven of them with the Braves), was a foregone conclusion.

But he was only the seventh "modern" player in five years voted to the Hall by the writers, and observers had expected them to add a couple of others with him—particularly since the veterans committee admitted so many old-timers in recent seasons.

In 1971 alone, for example, the vets' committee inducted seven players, and another special group has been choosing players from the old Negro leagues.

Roberts, who won 286 games for the Phillies, perhaps expressed the sentiments of the losers when he admitted he was "quite disappointed" he was not elected on his first attempt. "I had thought I might make it, what with all the speculation," Roberts said from his home in suburban Philadelphia. "Maybe next time."

It takes 75 per cent of the ballots—or 285 of the 380 this year—and Spahn made it easily, getting named on 316 Ford missed by 30, with 255 while Kiner, Hodges and Roberts followed.

"I'd have waited 10 years—I have no regrets," joked Spahn, who would have been eligible for enshrinement two years earlier but for brief, promotional pitching appearances with the Mexico City Tigers of the Mexican League in 1966 and Tulsa of the Pacific Coast League in 1967.

Spahn, whose trademark was a high-kicking motion, set a major league record for left-handers by winning 20 games or more in 13 different seasons. He also set major league records for most years leading in games won (8), most consecutive years leading league in complete games (7), most career strikeouts by a left-hander (2,583) and most consecutive years with 100 or more strikeouts (17).

Bruce Crampton Isn't Banking on '3'

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Bruce Crampton, the good natured Aussie who found this putting touch at Phoenix and Tucson, doesn't give himself much of a chance of making it three in a row starting today in the Crosby National Pro-Am, but he'll be out there battling three tough courses and the weather along with 171 others.

"The pressure is tremendous when you've won two tournaments," Crampton said before his teeoff at Pebble Beach, "and I honestly don't think I can win again, but I'll be trying."

What makes it difficult is that the Crosby is one of those tournaments where the weather, along with the naturally tough courses, makes it difficult to score well.

"I've always played Pebble Beach well," Crampton said, "but that doesn't mean I've always scored well. Last year in the U.S. Open here I played about as well as I can but I finished three strokes behind Jack."

Jack, of course, is Nicklaus, who won the Open with a two-over par 290. Six months earlier, Nicklaus won the Crosby in a sudden death playoff with young John Miller, so he plays the Crosby seaside courses about as well as anyone around.

While Crampton starts off at Pebble Beach, Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper, making his 1973 debut, are at Cypress Point. Rod Funseth, winner of the Los Angeles Open to launch the $8 million 1973 PGA tour, opens on Spyglass Hill.

In the Crosby format, each pro plays a round on all three courses before the cut is made to the low 70 and ties for the final round on Pebble Beach. The top prize in the $180,000 tourney is $36,000. Second is worth $20,500 and third is $12,800.

There are 172 amateurs, many of them from the various entertainment fields, in the competition, too. Each pro is paired off with an amateur and the cut from that field is to the low 33 teams and ties. The Pro-Am purse comes to $25,000, making the total Crosby pot $205,000.

Nicklaus, who won more than $30,000 last year, is the favorite, as might be expected. Jack made a rare start in the Los Angeles Open four weeks ago and won $4,975. He went home to rest the last two weeks while Crampton, the top money winner thus far this year with $60,030, went on to take the Phoenix and Tucson opens.

Palmer, always a popular player in the Crosby, played in the Los Angeles and Tucson. He's picked up only $1,129 thus far this year and is without a tourney title in more than a year.

Arnie, who won $81,439 in 1972, is the last man to win three tourney titles in a row. That was way back in 1962 when he won the Texas Open, Tournament of Champions and Colonial. The all-time record is 11 by Byron Nelson in 1945.

Casper, like Palmer, didn't have a good year in 1972, winning only $52,105. He's been idle for a few months now with a sore muscle in his back, but like Nicklaus and Palmer, hates to miss the Crosby.

ARNOLD IN MUFTI — Despite overcast skies and threat of rain Arnold Palmer wore an eyeshade and colored glasses for practice round for Bing Crosby Tourney which opens today at Pebble Beach, Calif. (UPI)

Knox and Gabriel on the Spot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a couple of breaths, Carroll Rosenbloom put both his new coach Chuck Knox and his quarterback Roman Gabriel on the spot.

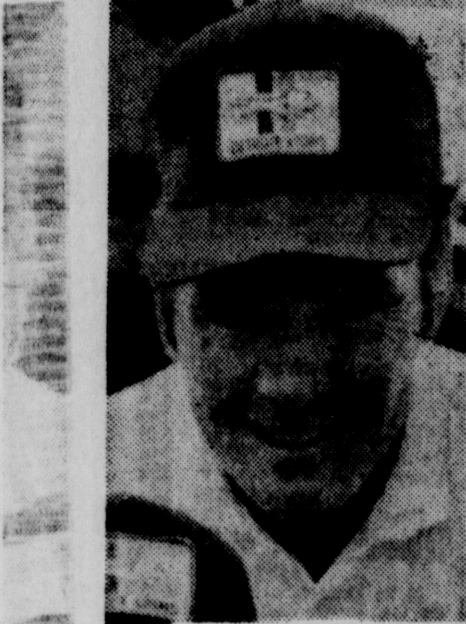

The owner of the Los Angeles Rams wants to win—now. Rosenbloom fired Tommy Prothro on Wednesday and appointed the 40-year-old Knox, who has been an assistant with the Detroit Lions for six years following tenure with the New York Jets.

"What I know of the Los Angeles Rams, we should have gone to the Super Bowl," said Rosenbloom at the news conference introducing Knox to Los Angeles. "I think we should have gone to the Super Bowl this year."

So did Knox with three years left on a contract of $90,000 give or take some thousands. In comes Knox who says, "The people I admire the most are consistent winners. I think football should be coached with enthusiasm."

But in 1972, they were 6-7-1. Critics of Prothro said he didn't show sufficient enthusiasm in his coaching although he was technically one of the best in the business. He had been successful at both Oregon State and UCLA before signing with the Rams.

CHUCK KNOX

ROMAN GABRIEL

Gabriel Curious

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Responding to reports that the Los Angeles Rams, who now have a new coach, are also in the market for a new quarterback, Rams' signal caller Roman Gabriel says he might have to have a talk with owner Carroll Rosenbloom.

After Rosenbloom called San Diego veteran quarterback John Hadl "one of our top prospects" during the same news conference at which he introduced the new Los Angeles coach, Chuck Knox, Gabriel said:

"The only way I see it is if the Rams get a Hadl or some other established quarterback, the guy coming here won't want to unless he is going to start. And if that is the case, I've got to sit down and talk with the people upstairs."

Poor Ice Curtails Hockey Program

HURLEY

Due to poor ice conditions at the Hurley Rec skating rink, the hockey program has been called off until further notice.

The recent warm spell and mild temperatures has caused this condition. Boys in the program will be notified when the program will resume.

Gabriel Curious

Gabriel, who said he hasn't talked to Rosenbloom since the Rams' 6-7-1 1972 season ended, has a no-cut, no-trade clause in his contract with the Rams.

"If it comes to the point where the Rams want to trade me," Gabriel said, "I've got a voice as to how much time I have before I leave and where I want to go," he said.

Gabriel's performance last season was hampered by tendonitis in his right elbow, which he said was "getting better every day."

Matte Unsure He'll Report

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Veteran running back Tom Matte says he is "leaning toward retiring" rather than report to the San Diego Chargers who have dealt the 12-year veteran by the Baltimore Colts Wednesday.

over the quarterbacking chores were injured, said he had nothing against San Diego, but "Baltimore is my home now."

"Eleven out of my 12 years have been wonderful," he said. "I've enjoyed the great support of the Colt fans and the city in general."

But Matte refused to close the door entirely on his playing career. He indicated, however, that he did not know what might induce him to continue playing.

Matte saw limited action this past season, spending much of the time on the taxi squad as the Colts concentrated on their youth movement enroute to a disappointing season.

Asked if he would like to stay in football in another capacity, Matte responded that he "had always wanted to play some role in the game," but said he would definitely not be interested in a coaching job.

During his colorful career with Baltimore, Matte gained 4,619 yards rushing on 1,200 attempts, caught 249 passes for 2,856 yards and scored 57 touchdowns.

Nagy to St. Louis

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox announced Wednesday they have traded pitcher Mike Nagy to the St. Louis Cardinals for a player to be named later.

General Manager Dick O'Connell said the trade enabled the Red Sox to make room on their roster for Orlando Cepeda, who was signed to a one-year contract last week as the Red Sox' designated hitter.

OCS Wrestlers 'Fall' to 5-3

BOICEVILLE

Wednesday the Ontario High School Wrestling team lost a match and dropped its overall record to 5-3. That just shows you how misleading records can sometimes be.

The score against Orange County powerhouse Valley Central was 30-23, and that's a good showing that demonstrates the strength of OCS.

Ontario Indians Robin Hunter and Leon Faulkner won their respective 100 and 140 pound bouts as they did just about everything they're good on the mat. The big surprises were victories by Courtney Travis and Rich Johnson who both scored upset wins over top-rated VC opponents.

Travis, in 107, caught tough J.V. Scalfani with a first period pin at the 1:53 mark. It was a big victory for Travis as J.V. had anchored Valley Central's teams for the past few years.

Johnson picked up his win in the last match of the day after the issue had been decided. He nailed Rich O'Banks with a 5-2 decision in 215 reversing the results of that class in the Mid Hudson Tournament in January.

The result of the match was about what Ontario coach Joe Friedel expected, though he didn't foresee the turn of events. Balancing the Indian upsets was a victory by Jose Sanchez over favored Ken St. John of Ontario in 134. St. John was also caught napping and suffered a pin at 1:24.

Victory Over Pine Bush No Fourth for OCS Lassies

BOICEVILLE

Ontario High School Girls led all the way to defeat Pine Bush High, 39-29, for their fourth win in five games. The win avenged an earlier loss to Pine Bush, the only one of the 1972-73 season.

Lesley Geertsema and Alicia Collins led OCS with eight points apiece. Lesley had seven steals and Alicia picked off eight rebounds. Ann Schroeder also starred with seven points and 16 rebounds. Anita Shultis had 11 rebounds. Toni Pulver led the losers with 12 points.

The score:

Herb Petersen Has the System

SAUGERTIES How do you hold a 207 average in bowling? Well, if you're Herbie Petersen you just knock off a couple of series like 670 and 669 in succession. Then, as a matter of fact, you gain ground.

Petersen did just that in a regular and makeup session of the Bowlers Club Major. He stacked 226, 185, 258 for the 669 and 225, 211 and 234 in the 670 set. And just to prove that he is human, Herbie settled for 589 in a third match. Still it was a 65-pin pickup in the three matches, moving his average at least to 208.

Highest triple in the three matches was a 675 Ed Brio bombed on lines of 208, 245 and 222. Bob Shlightner fired 663.

Best team slams were Johnson Ford's 1030-2984 and 1042-2936, Saugerties National Bank 1013 and 1023 and Clariante's Trucking 1067 and 1018.

Police Captain
Shot in Hand

NEW YORK (UPI)—A police captain was shot in the hand Wednesday night when he went to the aid of a subway passenger being robbed at gunpoint.

Police said Capt. Thomas O'Brien, a 31-year veteran of the force, was on a subway train as it pulled into the 182nd Street and Grand Concourse station when two unidentified men approached the passenger, Manuel Pantazonis, 43, a school teacher, and tried to rob him.

O'Brien interrupted the hold-up, identified himself as a police officer and was about to pull out his revolver when one of the assailants fired a shot, striking O'Brien in the right hand. The assailants ran off the train when it stopped in the station.

O'Brien, the executive officer at the West 82nd Street station-house, was taken to Montefiore Hospital, where he was admitted for surgery to remove the slug.

'Gas Day' Is Planned

An all-day gas pumping project will be held Saturday, Jan. 27, by Kingston Post 150, American Legion, and city and County public officials for the benefit of the March of Dimes.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig and other officials will assist Legionnaires of Post 150 at the Power Test Service Station at the corner of Washington Avenue and Lucas Avenue in Kingston. All profits from their activities will be turned over to the March of Dimes, which is working to eliminate birth defects.

M. Alton Feistel, March of Dimes Chairman, said that the public is being asked to support the project, with the profits going for intensive basic and clinical research, public health education programs, rubella immunization, and prenatal care programs supported by the March of Dimes.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

SKATER: (Q.) I am 13, but nobody believes it when I tell them. They say I could be 18 or 19. I think it is my face. I don't wear any makeup at all and look much more grownup than 13.

The reason I am writing you is this professional roller skater. He is grown and has a wife and a baby son. Because of him I am resolved to be a professional skater myself.

I can just sit and think of him, and nothing else matters. He is cuter than any boy I ever knew. I am afraid to think what might happen if I could get really close to him. I used to want a boy friend. Now all I want is HIM. It's driving me crazy. Could you help me, please! — Really Gone in New York.

(A.) It may comfort you to know that down the ages there have been 13-year-old girls who have looked and felt much older. Also down through the ages 13-year-old girls have idealized people much older than they are.

This is part of life. It is very strong. It has touches of sweetness and of bitterness too.

It is great to have people, either male or female, to idealize. But it is not good to overdo it. Spend more of your time in real life, in your school activities, in your studies, at work in your church. You do not have to concentrate on boys, but you should be around boys and girls your age.

The activity will help you to see that there is real life, good life, all around you. It is a life in which you belong. Wrap yourself in it, rather than in an impractical dream.

TWO BEAUTIES: (Q.) I've met two lovely females. Both are beautiful people. I want to get to know both of them. But I can't seem to make up my mind which one I like better. — Undecided in Oklahoma.

You may not have to make a choice at all. One of them may not like you. And, perish the thought, neither may the other.

Ask one for a date this weekend and the other for a date next weekend. That should help decide which one you like more and which one—if either—likes you more.

LBJ... The Last Interview

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson was pale, smoking heavily again and didn't appear in good health when interviewed last Jan. 12 by CBS' Walter Cronkite over the last two years.

It now is the final show in the series. CBS is calling it, "LBJ: The Last Interview." The network will broadcast it Feb. 1 from 10 to 11 p.m. EST.

Yet, his conversation during the interview was lively and his movements around the LBJ ranch at that time weren't those of a dying man, Cronkite recalled Tuesday.

Nor, Cronkite said, did Johnson express any premonition of death.

"I've heard that story from others who've been down there, but I didn't hear him say anything like that while I was there," the newsman said. "In fact, it was something of the opposite."

"He talked about future plans, not about things of great import, but things like selling cattle and land purchases and sales."

The exclusive interview.

which took two hours to film. He was so nervous without lie that after all these years, cigarettes that it was probably the Vietnam war finally was better for his heart to go ahead near an end?

and smoke them than to be as cantankerous as he was without them."

Johnson's death, ironically, came a day before President Nixon's long-awaited announcement about peace in Vietnam.

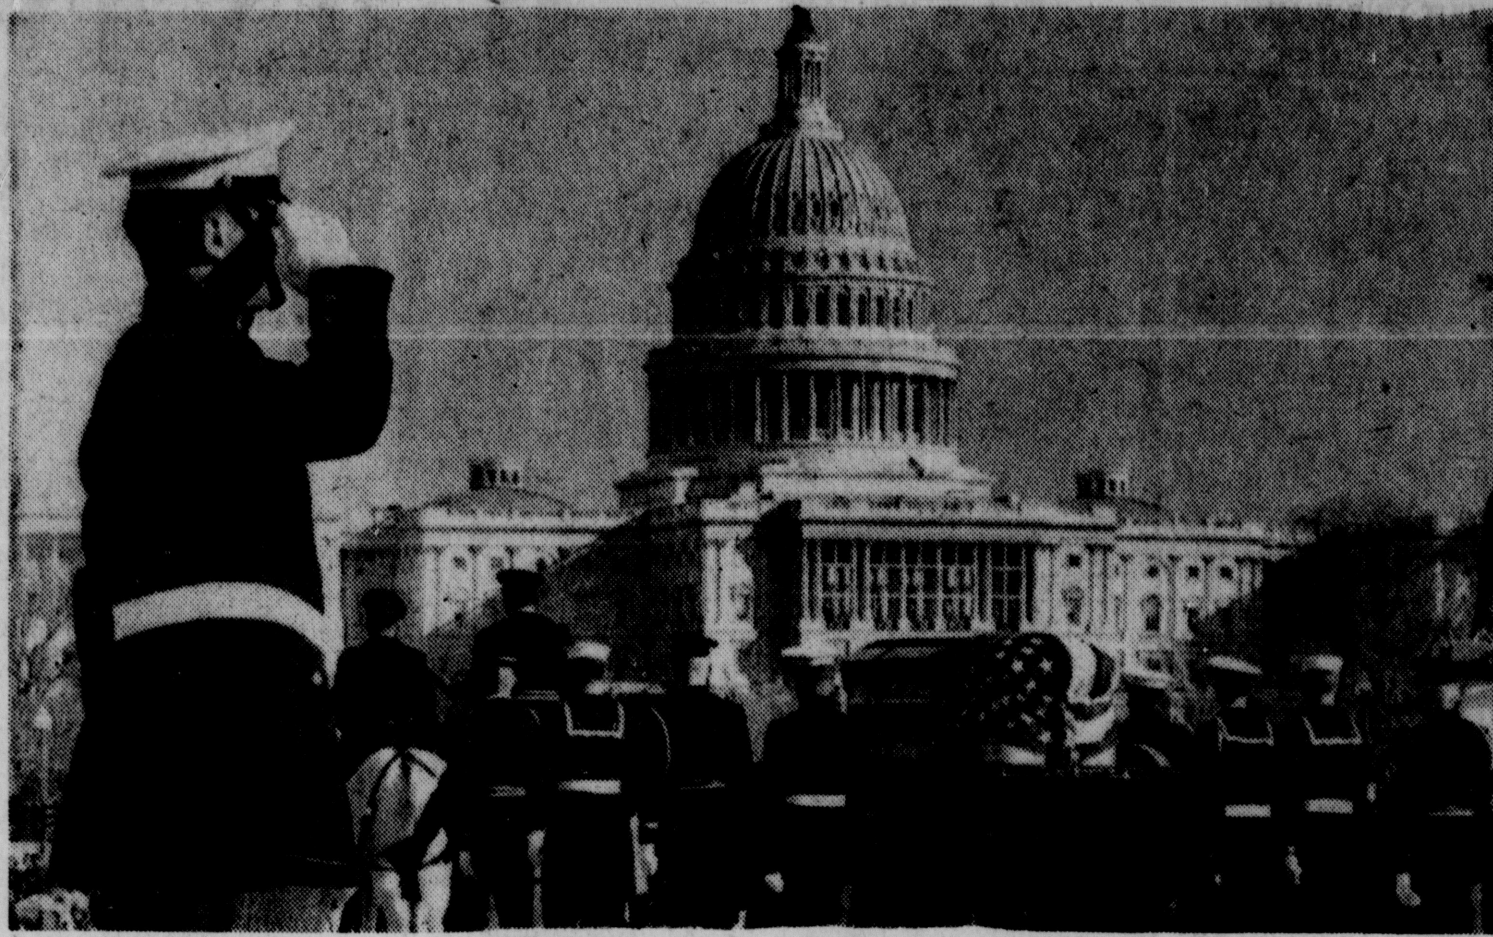

The announcement was carried live by all three networks Tuesday night.

Did Johnson express any be-play of emotion.

PRESIDENT NIXON PLACES WREATH
(UPI TELEPHOTO)

LBJ Eulogized as 'Tall Man With Giant Character'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lynndon Baines Johnson was eulogized at Washington funeral rites today as the "tall man with giant character."

Led by his successor, Richard M. Nixon, the nation's capital in which Johnson was a dominant figure as Senate leader and then as President of the United States paid farewell tribute to him on a day of bright sunlight and cold shadow. The funeral at midmorning came after an estimated 40,000 Americans of every station in life passed by Johnson's flag-draped coffin as he lay in state in the echoing rotunda at the U.S. Capitol where he began his political career as a protégé of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Government dignitaries, a handful of foreign representatives, and scores of personal and political friends attended Johnson's funeral at National City Christian Church that he frequented while in the White House.

The final chapter of the tributes and mourning for the tall man from Texas will be written late today when he is buried in his beloved Texas Pedernales River country, under a big oak tree, alongside his parents and grandparents.

Joining President and Mrs. Nixon at the funeral was Mamie Eisenhower, widow of another President.

Johnson's widow, Lady Bird, was accompanied by her daughters, Luci and Lynda, and their husbands. Also in the first row Johnson family pew was Johnson's 5-year-old grandson, Lyn Nugent, who as the body was carried from the Capitol, cast a poignant farewell salute.

The boy paid similar respect twice Wednesday to his grandfather—first when Johnson's body was placed aboard the plane in Texas for the flight to Washington and again when the casket was carried off the presidential jet on arrival at Andrews Air Force Base. The same plane—the one on which Johnson was sworn in as President in 1963 after the assassination of John F. Kennedy—was set aside by Nixon to return Johnson's remains to Texas for burial.

Johnson's final resting place is a plot under a huge, live oak in the family cemetery at the Johnson ranch. The site is 100 yards from the house in which he was born 64 years ago and adjacent to the graves of his parents and grandparents.

The Rev. Billy Graham, who presides at today's burial of Johnson, said the former chief executive often talked of his pending death but had on fear of it. "I think he might have looked at it as a relief from the tremendous burdens and responsibilities with which he lived," Graham said Wednesday.

"We talked about death quite frequently," the evangelist said. "I don't think he was afraid of death, at least not in recent years."

The evangelist said he once sat between President Nixon and Johnson in 1969 while they discussed the presidency.

'Great Society' Crumbling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Much of what remains of the Great Society of Lyndon B. Johnson may not long survive him.

Many of the domestic programs and agencies by which the 36th president hoped to abolish poverty and rebuild the ghettos are sentenced to death or dismemberment under President Nixon's budget ax.

Government sources said privately the Office of Economic Opportunity, conceived by Johnson as a major weapon of his "war on poverty," would be broken up and its remaining functions shifted to other agencies if Congress concurs.

Nixon's fiscal 1974 budget message, ready for delivery to Congress on Monday, reportedly will call for total outlays of around $268 billion or $269 billion.

That would be a relatively small increase from this year's $250-billion target, considering economic and population growth and the fact that defense spending may rise despite the peace agreement in Vietnam.

Holding down the budget is made possible, officials said, by Nixon's heavy ax work on funds for housing, health, education and social programs, subsidized public-service jobs, work training and community services.

Some of the targeted programs, such as the Rural Electrification Administration, date back to Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal, but many of the housing and urban programs are legacies of the "Great Society" hopes of the man who was being buried today in his native Texas.

An 18-month moratorium on new approvals of subsidized housing for low-income families was announced Jan. 5 by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The budget reportedly will provide no funds for new approvals in fiscal 1974, starting July 1.

Officials said the budget will reflect a theme of the President's inaugural address last Saturday, that Americans henceforth can expect less from their government: "Let each of us remember that America was built not by government, but by people—not by welfare, but by work—not by shirking responsibility, but by seeking responsibility."

Science, technology, space and atomic-energy programs also reportedly are due for paring. The White House Office of Science and Technology is being abolished; its functions will be moved to the National Science Foundation.

The rise in federal financing of civilian research and development, which was a priority item a year ago in Nixon's campaign to rebuild U.S. competitiveness in world trade, is expected to level off or decline.

But the economy blade will fall most drastically on the urban programs by which past administrations have tried to cope with poverty, unemployment, overcrowding, inferior schooling, disease and other big-city ills.

Volcano Erupts Once More

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — Thousands of tons of lava, fiery stone and ash shot into the sky from the craters of the erupting Heimgafell volcano early today and threw a ghostly light over the almost deserted island town of Vestmannaeyjar.

Reports from Heymaey island off the coast of Iceland said more houses in the eastern outskirts of the town were destroyed by glowing lava streams while others blistered in the intense heat.

At least 15 craters, some of them 300 yards wide, have burst open since the first eruption Tuesday. Government officials said the volcano was still erupting.

Vestmannaeyjar is the only town on the island, the chief Iceland fishing port, and all of its more than 5,000 citizens left Tuesday after the volcano roared to life for the first time in 5,000 or 6,000 years.

Only about 100 policemen, firemen and volunteers remained on the island today to protect property and personal belongings left behind.

The flow of lava extended 800 yards into the Atlantic around the island and officials said the lava streams had filled in parts of the 2-mile-long rift that threatened to split the island across its 2½-mile width.

"Everything turned red—the sky, the earth, people," one islander said. "It was an unbelievable scene."

Frozen fish valued at $2 million was transferred Wednesday to the mainland from island freezing plants.

The island accounts for about 20 per cent of Iceland's fishing industry, a cornerstone in the nation's economy, and government sources said the eruption could deal a serious blow to the economy.

UPI reporter Kari Jonasson reported from the island that a band of hot lava 1,000 yards wide that is flowing into the island straits may force the closing of the harbor.

"The water is so hot that you burn yourself if you put your hand into the it," he said.

Temporary Political Asylum

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Authorities said today they will consider asylum requests from three Haitians who won the release of 12 political prisoners and obtained $70,000 in ransom by releasing two U.S. diplomats they held in Port Au Prince.

The Haitian government paid the ransom to the three kidnappers, one of them a woman, in Port Au Prince after they released on the steps of the aircraft U.S. Ambassador Clinton E. Knox, 64, one of the State Department's highest ranking black career diplomats, and Consul Ward Christensen, 53. Neither man was harmed.

The kidnappers and the freed prisoners arrived in Mexico City late Wednesday.

The three held Knox and Christensen at gunpoint throughout the night Tuesday and demanded freedom for 31 political prisoners and $500,000 ransom in exchange for their release. They settled for 12 prisoners, $70,000 and transportation to Mexico.

They intercepted Knox at the gate of his private residence as he returned home from work in his chauffeur-driven car. The kidnappers then got Christensen, a native of Montana who was raised in Oregon, to the ambassador's house on a pretext.

On arrival Wednesday night, none of the 15 would say which members of the group were the kidnappers.

The Mexican government granted all of them temporary political asylum pending a detailed check of their backgrounds by authorities.

"We are all prisoners", commented one man who identified himself as Daniel Josue Bernard. Bernard said he is a former French professor who had spent three and a half years in prison.

Asked why, he said: "In Haiti nobody knows why he is imprisoned."

He added, "Life is very hard in Haiti. The people suffer."

There was no word on what happened to the ransom money the kidnappers carried aboard the Air Haiti DC6 plane that brought them to Mexico. Mexican officials would not say if they impounded it.
